

HONOR FOR LOWELL MAN

Patrolman Spillane, Former Member of Co. M, Recommended for D. S. C.

Paul M. Spillane, a former member of Co. M of the 101st Regiment, and at present a member of the local police force, has been recommended for a distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism and devotion to duty in France on Oct. 25, 1918, according to a letter which has been received by Supt. Redmond Welch from Spillane's former commander, Valentine C. Jacob of New York City.

Spillane is characterized as "the most capable and excellent soldier" his commander ever knew, in the letter to Supt. Welch which reads as follows:

New York, Nov. 11, 1920.

Chief of Police, Lowell, Mass.

"Dear Sir:—Believing you will be interested in the past record of members of your organization, I am enclosing herewith a copy of a recommendation for the award of the D.S.C. to Paul M. Spillane of 15 Sargent street, Lowell, Mass., who I understand is at present a member of your force. This recommendation was forwarded originally in December, 1918, while in France, but for some unknown reason never reached its proper destination. However, I feel confident that this one will reach the proper authorities and that they will act favorably upon it.

In conclusion, sir, permit me to congratulate you in having the most capable and excellent soldier I ever knew as a member of your force.

Respectfully yours,

VALENTINE C. JACOB.

522 West 151st Street,

New York City, N. Y., Nov. 11, 1920.

From Valentine C. Jacob, formerly C. O. Co. "M," 101st U. S. Infantry.

To Adjutant General, U. S. Army.

Subject:—Recommendation for D.S.C.

1.—Paul M. Spillane, former line sergeant, Company M, 101st U. S. Infantry, is hereby recommended for the award of the Distinguished Service Cross, by his former company commander, Valentine C. Jacob, for extraordinary heroism and devotion to duty in the face of the enemy.

2.—On the 25th of October, 1918, in an offensive action against the enemy, Company M, 101st U. S. Infantry, became more or less disorganized, owing to unusually heavy losses, being inflicted on the enlisted personnel, all the officers being wounded, in two days previous offensive action. At this critical moment, Sergt. Spillane arose to the occasion, took command and reorganized the company and by his personal disregard of safety and dogged determination in the face of heavy enemy machine-gun and artillery fire, restored morale, confidence, and aggressiveness to the company. Subsequently Sergt. Spillane again demonstrated sterling qualities of leadership in leading his reorganized company forward through difficult terrain, stubbornly resisted by enemy machine-gun and successfully reaching the two objectives assigned his company. Sergt. Spillane organized his newly won objective and remained in command of the company until the 27th of October, when his organization was relieved. Throughout this period Sergt. Spillane continuously exposed himself to heavy enemy fire, going from group to group in his newly organized positions in order that he might give cheer and courage to the men under his command, and it was beyond question largely due to his inspiring example and personality that the objectives gained are unwaveringly held through a succession of severe counter attacks.

VALENTINE C. JACOB.

TYNGSBORO MAN

FOUND NOT GUILTY

On a charge of violating the national prohibition laws, Julio DeAndrade, arrested last Sunday night in Tyngsboro by Federal Officer O'Dea and Officers Holt and Gotham, was tried and found not guilty before United States Commissioner Hayes in Boston yesterday. The decision was based on the ground that there was no evidence of illegal liquor making produced by the officers although they did find a still in the defendant's possession. The officers failed to prove direct ownership of the still or intent to manufacture intoxicating liquor.

ISSUES DRASTIC ORDER

Street Car Men Protest Against Order Issued by Railway Trustees

Something more than a mild sensation was created in local street car circles by the issuance of an order by the board of public trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts street railway serving of one-man cars by employees "will not be tolerated. It was stated by an official of the local street car men's union today that it was probable that action would be taken by the officials of the organization to protest to the trustees against the enforcing of the order. It was stated that there was a serious possibility that should any of the men be discharged for disobeying the commands, a tense situation would be created.

"We look upon the order," said one of the leading members of the union, "as an attempt to import into Lowell the conditions of Russia in the darkest days of the czar. What we want is the right of free speech because we happen to work for the Eastern Massachusetts. Must we work on cars that we believe are not safe and not under the control of the public? What is the public think of it. If we, who know best about the cars, cannot utter a word that may be necessary to protect the public, it is the most drastic order ever issued by any employer of labor in this country. It would be a gag around our mouths as a condition of our remaining in the employ of the company.

The next regular meeting of the local union is scheduled to take place until November 23. It is stated that it is hoped that the trustees will modify, or at least not make a serious attempt to enforce the order before that time. If satisfactory attention is not given to the proposed protest, the subject, it is said, is likely to come up for consideration at the next meeting.

When the feeling of the men regarding the promulgation of the new order was brought to the attention of Thomas B. Lees, district manager of the Eastern Massachusetts, today, he stated that he had no comment to make.

The alleged obnoxious order, signed by all of the public trustees, reads as follows:

"An order having been issued on November 10, 1920, by the public trustees commission, reciting that the one-man cars now operated by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company are not a menace to public safety and that neither passengers nor operators have any cause for apprehension in the operation of these cars, the public trustees take this means of serving notice that further issuance of these cars by employees, seeking mischievous and prejudicial passengers and the general public will not be tolerated by the company.

"The public trustees also desire to state that any and all acts of disobedience by employees will result in the immediate discharge of offenders."

WILL SHUT DOWN

TILL JANUARY FIRST

The Gillespie Mfg. Co., whose plant is in Middlesex street near the city line, will shut down next Wednesday until January 1, according to an announcement made at the company's office this morning. The reason given for the shut-down is a depression in business.

The company manufactures electric washing machines and for the past three months has been operating but five days a week. A big depression in business has been noted lately and finally the officials of the company have decided to finish whatever orders the company has on hand and then close the new year. About 500 employees will be affected by the shut-down.

INQUEST HELD

An inquest hearing in the case of George Pettis of Chelmsford, charged with manslaughter for striking with his automobile and instantly killing Francis Murphy of Church street, at the junction of Rogers and Smith streets, was held in the court of second sessions before Judge Fisher this morning. The accident happened about a month ago.

RED CROSS DRIVE LAGS

Effort Being Made Today to Get Teams of Women Workers Started

The Red Cross drive for funds is lagging behind the pace set in previous years, according to a statement by Campaign Manager Fred F. Hayward. Last year $16,000 was raised in Lowell for the world's greatest mother. This year it had been hoped that the town would go over the top for at least the same amount.

If the ambition is to be realized, it is stated, there will have to be some punch put into the drive that will start things moving faster than they have been.

The campaign was handicapped at the beginning by the late arrival of necessary supplies. These did not all come to hand until Thursday, but have now all been distributed.

Nine teams of men are out on the job of trying to convince people of their duty to get behind the most important agency for philanthropy and mercy in the world.

No official reports have yet been made of the result of the teams' work. Such casual reports as have come to hand, however, have not been as encouraging as it was hoped they might be.

Monday, it is expected that regular reports from team managers will begin to come in and it will be possible to get a better line on the situation.

The leaders also hope that more pep will go into the drive the first of the week.

The drive closes Nov. 25—Thanksgiving day.

This afternoon a special effort was being made by members of the teams to gather in new memberships.

Thus far the work of getting the women started in the campaign has resulted with indifferent success. Mr. Hayward had planned to place the women's department under the direction of a single head for the whole city. It was then proposed to set teams at work under district managers in five sections of the city.

This afternoon the work of getting two teams into the field was started. One was being organized in Pawtucketville by Mrs. Harry Prescott Graves. Another was being started in Neividers by Mrs. Alice Leash.

Watched by Mr. Hayward are women who will volunteer to carry the work forward in Centralville, the Highlands and the Gosham street section of the city. Also he is searching for a woman who will take charge of the whole city.

Today the name of the E. E. Smith company, Market street, was gone over the top and are 100 per cent. rolled. Practically all of the banking institutions of the city are now in that list or are believed to be in a fair way of soon getting there.

The Old Lowell National Bank, Appleton National Bank, Central Savings Bank and the Washington Savings Institution arrived on the honor roll yesterday.

Work of lining-up the policemen for 100 per cent. enrollment honors is going forward briskly.

Supt. Redmond Welch is proving a whole Red Cross drive in himself. He is making it his special business to line up the Chinese for membership.

The Chinese are taking a part in the campaign that is calculated to shame some of their neighbors. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Welch had 97 names on his list as of members, another already to be added, and he expects to put the Chinese over the top early next week.

The school teachers, as usual, are coming forward to get their membership buttons with enthusiasm, and it is hoped that the school department will be one of the first at city hall to reach the 100 per cent. mark.

Simplicity Is the Keynote of This Girlish and Very Pretty Frock

BY CORA MOORE,
New York's Fashion Authority
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Deep cream-toned net of finest mesh makes up this party frock that is so unaffected, yet so attractive.

There is a plain slip of chiffon cloth underneath it, then to a plain full skirt of the net are added two groups of net ruffles across the sides, the back and front, being differently trimmed with three ruffles alternating with tiny Watteau ruffles and leaves and giving the effect of a panel.
The bodice trimming consists of plaited net ruffles that outline all the edges. As a finishing note there is a sash, a very beautiful sash, fashioned out of ribbon.

NEW HANDBAGS OF PAINTED LEATHER

Some novel bags that are being shown appear to be made of beads, although they are really of chenille embroidery done in all-over designs.
Other bags are of painted leather and brocade silk.

In the village of Fengchi, China, the sole industry is the making of earthen and chinaware.

PRESSING SILK

When pressing silk, the iron should not be too warm and unless there is a cloth between the iron and the silk, the material should never be pressed on the right side. The iron should be kept moving either across or up and down.

SIMPLE DRY CLEANER

One of the simplest and cheapest dry cleaners is a piece of art gum. It will clean kid gloves, dancing slippers, pictures, etc.

Dress Is Not Personal Vanity—It Is a Factor
In Furthering Interests in the Beautiful

ALICE BRADY LIKES TO WEAR BROWN IN DAYTIME AND WHITE IN EVENING, AS WITNESS THIS BROWN SATIN AND DUVETYN AND WHITE CHIFFON EVENING GOWN.

New York's Fashion Authority
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—All the women of the stage realize that dress is woman's most available opportunity for distinction and, in particular, does Alice Brady.

"It is the greatest pity," she declares, "that American women do not regard the matter of clothes less in the light of personal vanity and more seriously as a factor in furthering an interest in the beautiful and harmonious."

Business Woman's Asset
"It is one of a business woman's assets to look her level best just as surely as it is the society butterfly's.

And in every walk of life it is the same—dress counts.

"If a woman hasn't the instinct for dress, she should cultivate it or put herself in the hands of someone who does have it."

"Color," continues this pretty star of "Anna Ascends," "I think is the first essential to study, and not only with regard to its appeal to the eye but also to the senses, for there is no doubt about it, color has a distinct moral effect even as it has its effect upon the emotions."

Like Rays of Sunshine

"Cheerful colors are like rays of sunshine for clearing away blue devils; while yellow for some persons stirs up jealousy and envy; for others it has a soothing effect."

Miss Brady herself is especially fond of brown for day and white for evening, and illustrated are two of her dresses, the day costume of dark brown satin combined with a biscuit-colored duvelyn, and the other white chiffon embroidered with tiny iridescent beads. Both of these she wears in "Anna Ascends."

And low, parallel with the ground,
The street car, one man and all, was horns de comat, likewise the hydrant.
The little Ford suffered a bent front axle—who wouldn't?—but finally went off under its own power, leaving destruction in its wake. A joke is a joke, according to whether the laugh is with one or on one. There was no laugh on the Ford in this case.

The Primary Colors

The primary colors: purple, blue, green, yellow, orange and red, had about disappeared from women's wear in their purity, until this season, when orange so beautifully lights up masses of brown, heather and black. There is a crudeness about pure color which limits its use to small areas in dress which nearly every one has been trained to feel. It is almost with bated breath, then, we see patches of pure orange, often an entire hat, or a scarf, or a sweater, and after a short time we decide that it is beautiful.
And a most refreshing feature of this pure orange color, is that one need not be the possessor of a clear and dazzling complexion in order to wear
it. Often a woman of sallow and almost colorless complexion takes on a reflected beauty from a bit of this intense color that she never knew all the years she considered blue "her color."

ELKS' MEMORIAL EXERCISES
John F. Malley, formerly deputy internal revenue collector at Boston, will deliver the eulogy at the annual memorial exercises of the Lowell lodge of Elks at the Lowell Opera House Sunday evening, Dec. 5. The memorial exercises will be held in accordance with the annual custom of the Elks lodge all over the country to honor their dead on the first Sunday in December. Mr. Malley is a member of the Springfield lodge. The officers of the Lowell lodge are: W. C. Fisher, D.P., will take part in the ceremonies, and there will be singing by the Monks-son quartet and Mrs. F. L. Roberts.
The exercises will begin at 8 o'clock and the general public is invited.

Between the corn sheaves were great round boulders of deep, golden yellow.
Pumpkins, you've guessed rightly, my dear. If Peter had been there he'd surely have had a great feast and found plenty to spare for his wife.

But to Cutie Cottontail's surprise,
and Ben Bunny, Jr.'s, and Cobby
Coon's, and everybody's, there wasn't a single one of them made into jacko'-lanterns. The place was so dim
you couldn't see to hop over a leaf.

"How come?" asked Scamper Squirrel running around curiously. "Why
so dark, Mr. Scarecrow?"

Mr. Scarecrow appeared from behind
a corn shock, all tattered and torn.
In an old coat and hat and a pair of trousers that had belonged to Farmer
Smith. Then he shook hands with his guests all around very cordially, before answering.

"If there were too much light, my friends, you could all tell who each other really are. It isn't well to have too much light at a masquerade party.
You know. Now, take my friend here,
I'd never guess in the world that he was Mr. Chip Chippmunk."

Chip straightened his mask and pulled down his little yellow jacket and said he was glad of that.

"And," went on Mr. Scarecrow turning to shake hands with some new guests, "if there were any more light,
I'd surely know that this gentleman was Mr. Scribble Scratch, the fairy schoolmaster, but as it is, I don't know him at all."

Scribble Scratch, who'd gone as Mr.
Adam and wore a lot of leaves, was greatly gratified at this and winked at Nick through his false face. Nick and Nancy were dressed as "Eabes-in-the-Wood."

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The very last thing is hand-painted luggage.
A young French girl, Elaine Chappelle, has started trunks and handbags on a wild career—it is threatening to become the rage in New York.
Beauty used to stop with Tappie's bonnet boxes, but now at the express sta-doubt their eyes.

And it came about all very simply.
Miss Chappelle, an artist, who prior to the discovery, made designs for book covers and posters and sometimes textiles, says:

"I had got tired of seeing battered trunks and suit cases in my house.
I have travelled a good bit, and I carry a good deal about with me from place to place. Now no trunk stands more than one trip to Paris or other European port without beginning to show signs of wear. The corners get worn, the leather or cloth which covers the framework gets dirty, there are innumerable scratches, it has lost its original bright look. It is depressing, it makes the hotel room gloomy. It is a necessity, but top soon an ugly necessity."

A Pot of Orange Paint

So one day I got a pot of orange yes orange paint, plain paint, and one pot of the same orange in enamel, and went home, and laying off my coat, turned that trunk around and gave it a good painting with a big brush.
Drying it looked so handsome that I went out and bought two pots of cerise paint for my hand-bag—a coat of plain paint first then the enamel—the effect was so startling that I went through my entire collection, including a cabin trunk which had seen many years of use.

"Then I invited my women friends in to tea."

"Need I say that they went mad?
Now I have my hands full."

Although some of the people who bring her their bags to beautify want sober colors, Miss Chappelle says that since the modern movement in art has brought more of the so-called raw colors into vogue she finds bright warm colors are the most popular.
Men turn to the darker colors. But the women—

Hazy Blue and Old Rose

"Well," says Miss Chappelle, "now I am doing fancy stunts. Would you believe it? These orders this week for all-over designs. One trunk is for a bride. It is a beautiful thing—all white as a background, and over this a design in corn-flowers. Another is for a baby outfit, all in baby blue and old rose. And one is for a man—yes, for a man—in black and silver stripes like the modish milliner's hat boxes."

The most successful effort in this direction, she believes, is a travelling bag, larger than a vanity case.
It is painted a dull blue, and on the cover there is a silhouette effect in black, a large peacock standing, with feathers spread, under a black moon.

"And what do you predict for the future of luggage in general?" she was asked.

"All the great terminals of the world will look like a flower garden in a few years. We have been dull long enough, and careless long enough of the appearance of necessities."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

MR. SCARECROW EXPLAINS

"IF THERE WERE ANY MORE LIGHT, I'D SURELY KNOW THAT THIS GENTLEMAN WAS MR. SCRIBBLE SCRATCH, BUT AS IT IS, I DON'T KNOW HIM AT ALL."

The last quarter of the hunter's moon didn't give any too much light for Mr. Scarecrow's masquerade party in the corn-field: just a pale misty glimmer that made shadows look queer, and the cornstalks piled high into shocks looked like miniature mountains.

Between the corn sheaves were great
round boulders of deep, golden yellow.
Pumpkins, you've guessed rightly, my
dear. If Peter had been there he'd surely have had a great feast and found
plenty to spare for his wife.

But to Cutie Cottontail's surprise,
and Ben Bunny, Jr.'s, and Cobby
Coon's, and everybody's, there wasn't
a single one of them made into jack-
o'-lanterns. The place was so dim
you couldn't see to hop over a leaf.

"How come?" asked Scamper Squirrel running around curiously. "Why
so dark, Mr. Scarecrow?"

Mr. Scarecrow appeared from behind
a corn shock, all tattered and torn.
In an old coat and hat and a pair of trousers that had belonged to Farmer
Smith. Then he shook hands with his guests all around very cordially, before answering.

"If there were too much light, my friends, you could all tell who each other really are. It isn't well to have
too much light at a masquerade party.
You know. Now, take my friend here,
I'd never guess in the world that he
was Mr. Chip Chippmunk."

Chip straightened his mask and pulled down his little yellow jacket and said he was glad of that.

"And," went on Mr. Scarecrow turning to shake hands with some new guests, "if there were any more light,
I'd surely know that this gentleman
was Mr. Scribble Scratch, the fairy schoolmaster, but as it is, I don't know him at all."

Scribble Scratch, who'd gone as Mr.
Adam and wore a lot of leaves, was greatly gratified at this and winked at Nick through his false face. Nick and Nancy were dressed as "Eabes-in-the-Wood."

Germany Not to Ask Admission

GENEVA, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Germany will not make a formal application for admission to the League of Nations, but would not ignore an invitation to become a member, said Dr. Hermann Mueller, vice president of the foreign affairs committee of the German Reichstag, in a statement to the Journal de Geneve yesterday. "Germany will not ask the assembly to admit her to the league," he declared, "because such an application would give rise to a sharp discussion in the assembly, for it is known certain states have given indications they would oppose her immediate entry. I do not know whether they have sufficient support to insure the triumph of their viewpoint, but, however that may be, such a discussion would not be without danger to the league itself. Besides, the German government does not consider the league in its present form as perfect. How, indeed, could it be, since, to mention only two states, it includes neither Russia nor the United States, and universality is the fundamental condition of its existence? That, however, does not mean that Germany would maintain a reserved attitude in event of some delegation raising the question of her admission, and if the assembly should accept her, Germany would not decline an invitation resulting from such a decision."

Japan and U. S. Reach Agreement

TOKIO, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Newspapers of this city report the Japanese and American governments have reached an agreement in principle relative to the exclusion of Japanese laborers from the United States. It is asserted, however, that there is a disagreement regarding methods to be employed. America is understood to desire provisions for exclusion embodied in a treaty, but Japan, it is said, regards this procedure humiliating, and as forming a precedent she might be forced to follow in treaties negotiated in future. Japan is declared to consider that measures prohibiting her subjects from emigrating can be taken only on her own initiative. In other respects, the negotiations are progressing, it is reported, and, once this point has been settled, an agreement may be expected.

Honor Memory of Florence Nightingale

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Special ceremonies in honor of the memory of Florence Nightingale, famous English nurse during the Crimean war, were held today by the Red Cross at the base of the Statue of Liberty. The program was planned as a part of the Red Cross annual roll call activities. Representatives of the British, French and Italian governments, and of the various national welfare organizations of this country, as well as officers of the army and navy, attended.

Next week's carnival will be one of the important means taken to secure financial support for the project.

FRIENDS OF IRELAND AT FANEUIL HALL

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—At a meeting of the Friends of Irish Freedom at Faneuil hall last night, Joseph Smith criticized the Red Cross for not extending its work to Ireland to aid the victims of the Black and Tans. He read correspondence from the American Red Cross at Washington showing that all queries in the case were referred to the European associates and that no definite action could be given until the European authorities were heard from. Remarks were made to the effect that British influence would prevent the

List of Alleged Outrages Read

Miss Ada K. Cannon of Iowa summarized some of the alleged outrages by British in Ireland during the last year, saying that 3000 persons have been arrested, 50 innocent civilians put to death, 17,000 raids made on private houses, 476 attacks on unarmed men, women and children and 97 towns "shot up," resulting in thousands of women and children taking to the fields and suffering from cold and exposure at night, from fear of their home communities being attacked.

When she finished, Miss Cannon aroused a great outburst of applause by dryly remarking: "Will someone please page the American Red Cross?" Miss Mary Cuihane read impressively the Declaration of Independence of both the United States and of the Irish republic. Each of the speakers referred with gratification to the defeat of the League of Nations and credited the women largely with killing "a covenant designed to reduce the United States to a state of subjection to Great Britain comparable with Ireland's situation."

Miss Cannon asserted that Lloyd George's latest offer to Ireland, "to give her a partnership in the British Empire at the height of its greatness, England reserving to herself control of all Irish ports," means that England proposes to exclude American trade from Irish ports.

Large Sum for League Propaganda

Mrs. Mary Mahoney, a Boston newspaperwoman, charged that a large sum of money, the source of which was doubtful, was recently spent locally in spreading propaganda in favor of the League of Nations. Mrs. Mahoney, who was in France not long ago, declared that the French people generally were anxious for the election of Harding because they are opposed to the League of Nations.

She said that the result of the election means "America for Americans, the Stars and Stripes and not an international flag. The Star Spangled Banner" and not "God Save the King."

Miss Monica Foley, who was credited with having suggested the "thanksgiving" meeting, spoke briefly, and Cornelius J. Desmond recited a poem of his own on the death of Mayor Mac-Sweeney.

WHIST AND DANCE

Members of the committee in charge of the apron table at the coming Catholic club bazaar held a whist and dance in I.O.O.F. hall, Chelmsford, last evening. The early part of the evening was taken up with whist and at the close of the game suitable prizes were awarded the winners. Later general dancing was started and continued till a seasonable hour. Those responsible for the success of the affair were: Mrs. Warren J. Kneeland, general manager; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hazeltine, Mrs. Mary Hill, Miss Gertrude Mulligan and Arthur Pratt.

ALLEN McQUHAE

Youthful Irish Tenor Will Sing in Lowell

Lowell music lovers will undoubtedly receive with pleasure the news that Allen McQuhae, the youthful Irish tenor whose reputation was established in this country almost overnight, is to appear at the Lowell Opera House Sunday evening, Nov. 22, under the management of the Music League of America. His appearance here will be under the direct auspices of Martin A. Hunt.

Allen McQuhae is one of the few singers who have been endowed with the power not only to master the technique of their art but to be so much a part of it that they move their listeners' hearts. Occasionally there emerges such a singer who is able to invest the tone with an indelible quality that is more felt than heard.

Mr. McQuhae was born in Bray, County Wicklow, Ireland, and educated at the Jesuit college of Fonyhurst. Several years ago he came to this country and was making a highly successful tour of the middle west as soloist with the Cleveland symphony orchestra when the United States entered the war. Although not a citizen, he offered his services to the chairman of the Cleveland draft board at once. He was accepted and soon set sail with the first hundred thousand to leave this country. On the other side he received two commissions for gallantry and was commissioned a lieutenant at Soissons. He first served with the 27th division, but was later transferred to the 25th Y.D. Division. He has just finished a tour with the Minneapolis symphony orchestra and appeared for the first time in Boston at the Wilbur theatre Nov. 7 and easily won his audience by his splendid rendition of Irish melodies. The next day many of his critics hailed him as another McCormack.

Mr. McQuhae will be heard more extensively during the present season than in any previous year and Lowell is fortunate indeed to have him appear here so early in his concert tour. His is a rare type of voice, the true lyric tenor, yet with a dramatic tendency; a warm voice, with the melting Irish timbre which soars so easily to the top notes; a smooth voice which is no less effective in messa-di-voice than in ringing climaxes. He has the feeling for phrase and splendid action. In a word, a real artist.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Lombardi Ltd." Attraction at the Opera House Next Week—Wonderful Wardrobe and Stage Settings.

With a wardrobe estimated at $20,000, and stage settings in keeping with the artistic and costly hallmarks of the members of the cast, particularly the models, Owner J. W. Lombardi of the Opera House promises the patrons of the city and suburbs one of the most unusual and extensive stock attractions that this city has ever seen in the presentation of French and Italian famous plays and operas. The entire strength of the Lowell players will be augmented by the services of extras, as well as artists and designers, trained in the art of decorating and draping. Every indication points to the coming production as the biggest and best of its kind that local stock drama has ever offered to a Lowell public. The play is a comedy and is written from J. L. Chaffoux & Co. Rose Jordan Harrison will be employed and assist Director Jack Bennett in famous stage setting of the fashionable business headquarters on Fifth avenue. The costly gowns, pieces and millinery to be used will be heavily insured during their use at the theatre, and a special watch placed over them night and day during the week. Mr. Lombardi and Associate Manager Cooke do not believe in doing things by halves, as may well be indicated from the manner in which they are producing this big stage success. Besides being a wonderfully good play "Lombardi Ltd." promises to be a real fashion show. The latter will present strongly to the women folk of the city and surrounding towns, while the show itself will positively appeal to all, more particularly the men folk.

The reputation of "Lombardi Ltd." is not only as a laughmaker, but also for its strong comedy and light and witty dressing of the ladies, has preceded it. In it the authors have brought to the stage an entirely new character—that of a fashionable dressmaker, a creator of haute couture in women's wear—Tito Lombardi, America's foremost creator of smart fashion. He is a genius in the matter of gorgeous gowns, but has absolutely no idea of business and proves somewhat of an amateur in the art of making love. He is entirely taken up with two subjects, clothes and a show girl. Since paying customers and an unfaithful sweetheart lead him to the very brink of financial disaster, from which he is saved only by the timely efforts of one of his dress models or maids, he is a character who is in the fashionable Fifth avenue shops.

The play no doubt will score one of the biggest hits of the season, and it is advisable to order your tickets well in advance. Miss Margaret (Helen) will appear as one of the models and the other women of the company will be seen in congenial roles. Milton Byron, whose character work is one of his strong points, will play the interesting role of Tito Lombardi, and he should, certainly score heavily. Maxwell Driscoll will be seen as a well-dressed frequenter of the fashion shops.

BOSTON SYMPHONY

Irma Seydel to Play With Orchestra at Concert to be Given at the Strand Theatre, November 22.

Scarcely a musician of her years and sex has so distinguished a career to her credit as Miss Seydel. She has had original compositions played by the orchestras in Boston and St. Louis, has given recitals of her

ALLEN McQUHAE

Youthful Irish Tenor Will Sing in Lowell

Lowell music lovers will undoubtedly receive with pleasure the news that Allen McQuhae, the youthful Irish tenor whose reputation was established in this country almost overnight, is to appear at the Lowell Opera House Sunday evening, Nov. 22, under the management of the Music League of America. His appearance here will be under the direct auspices of Martin A. Hunt.

Allen McQuhae is one of the few singers who have been endowed with the power not only to master the technique of their art but to be so much a part of it that they move their listeners' hearts. Occasionally there emerges such a singer who is able to invest the tone with an indelible quality that is more felt than heard.

Mr. McQuhae was born in Bray, County Wicklow, Ireland, and educated at the Jesuit college of Fonyhurst. Several years ago he came to this country and was making a highly successful tour of the middle west as soloist with the Cleveland symphony orchestra when the United States entered the war. Although not a citizen, he offered his services to the chairman of the Cleveland draft board at once. He was accepted and soon set sail with the first hundred thousand to leave this country. On the other side he received two commissions for gallantry and was commissioned a lieutenant at Soissons. He first served with the 27th division, but was later transferred to the 25th Y.D. Division. He has just finished a tour with the Minneapolis symphony orchestra and appeared for the first time in Boston at the Wilbur theatre Nov. 7 and easily won his audience by his splendid rendition of Irish melodies. The next day many of his critics hailed him as another McCormack.

Mr. McQuhae will be heard more extensively during the present season than in any previous year and Lowell is fortunate indeed to have him appear here so early in his concert tour. His is a rare type of voice, the true lyric tenor, yet with a dramatic tendency; a warm voice, with the melting Irish timbre which soars so easily to the top notes; a smooth voice which is no less effective in messa-di-voice than in ringing climaxes. He has the feeling for phrase and splendid action. In a word, a real artist.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Lombardi Ltd." Attraction at the Opera House Next Week—Wonderful Wardrobe and Stage Settings.

With a wardrobe estimated at $20,000, and stage settings in keeping with the artistic and costly hallmarks of the members of the cast, particularly the models, Owner J. W. Lombardi of the Opera House promises the patrons of the city and suburbs one of the most unusual and extensive stock attractions that this city has ever seen in the presentation of French and Italian famous plays and operas. The entire strength of the Lowell players will be augmented by the services of extras, as well as artists and designers, trained in the art of decorating and draping. Every indication points to the coming production as the biggest and best of its kind that local stock drama has ever offered to a Lowell public. The play is a comedy and is written from J. L. Chaffoux & Co. Rose Jordan Harrison will be employed and assist Director Jack Bennett in famous stage setting of the fashionable business headquarters on Fifth avenue. The costly gowns, pieces and millinery to be used will be heavily insured during their use at the theatre, and a special watch placed over them night and day during the week. Mr. Lombardi and Associate Manager Cooke do not believe in doing things by halves, as may well be indicated from the manner in which they are producing this big stage success. Besides being a wonderfully good play "Lombardi Ltd." promises to be a real fashion show. The latter will present strongly to the women folk of the city and surrounding towns, while the show itself will positively appeal to all, more particularly the men folk.

The reputation of "Lombardi Ltd." is not only as a laughmaker, but also for its strong comedy and light and witty dressing of the ladies, has preceded it. In it the authors have brought to the stage an entirely new character—that of a fashionable dressmaker, a creator of haute couture in women's wear—Tito Lombardi, America's foremost creator of smart fashion. He is a genius in the matter of gorgeous gowns, but has absolutely no idea of business and proves somewhat of an amateur in the art of making love. He is entirely taken up with two subjects, clothes and a show girl. Since paying customers and an unfaithful sweetheart lead him to the very brink of financial disaster, from which he is saved only by the timely efforts of one of his dress models or maids, he is a character who is in the fashionable Fifth avenue shops.

The play no doubt will score one of the biggest hits of the season, and it is advisable to order your tickets well in advance. Miss Margaret (Helen) will appear as one of the models and the other women of the company will be seen in congenial roles. Milton Byron, whose character work is one of his strong points, will play the interesting role of Tito Lombardi, and he should, certainly score heavily. Maxwell Driscoll will be seen as a well-dressed frequenter of the fashion shops.

ENFORCING THE LIQUOR LAW

For some time past the evidence of non-enforcement of the liquor law has been creeping out, not only in police court but in many places throughout the city and on our public streets. In police court the number of persons arraigned for drunkenness offers incontestable proof that liquor is being sold in violation of law.

Judge Enright has repeatedly called attention to the present state of affairs, but without apparent effect.

The question now discussed throughout the city is, whether the officers are fooling the chief as to the actual conditions or whether they are carrying out instructions of their superiors in closing their eyes to the open and flagrant violations of the law.

As head of the police department, it is incumbent upon Mayor Thompson to see that the police officials shall enforce the prohibitory law without fear or favor and that the city shall be cleared of speak-easies and the dives in which stills are in operation in the manufacture of "moonshine," the sale of which is undoubtedly responsible for much of the drunkenness recently noticed on the streets of our city.

This is a serious state of affairs and one which reflects directly upon Mayor Thompson as head of the police department even though the blame may rest with some of his subordinates.

We would remind His Honor that he may as well realize now as later that the responsibility in this matter is entirely his and that the public is not blind to the manner in which the law is being evaded with impunity throughout the city.

That the law is not being enforced as it should be is apparent to everybody, and to Mayor Thompson as commissioner of public safety and head of the police department, the citizens must look for the necessary improvement.

THE HOME RULE BILL

Despite all protests from liberal and labor sources the Lloyd George government has passed the home rule bill for Ireland and this time Sir Edward Carson is not likely to veto it as he did the bill passed in 1914.

It carries out his idea of minority rule in Ireland and as he is the parliamentary dictator, the British premier will try to justify it by ingenious camouflage.

It divides Ireland on sectional lines, the aim being to maintain perpetually a sort of British garrison in Ulster that will resist the idea of a free Ireland. The British premier and other Tory officials such as Bonar Law depict the alleged difficulty of settling the Irish question while the Carsonites hold out against the recognition of Ireland's rights and insist upon remaining in union with England. But the government is responsible for Carsonism as it is the outcome of the Tory policy to keep the people divided so that they cannot exert their entire strength as a national unit.

This attempt to partition Ireland will not settle the question, which will continue to trouble the British until Carsonism is dropped and Ireland justly treated as one united and undivided national entity.

The present bill is the most makeshift in comparison to the act of 1914, which Ireland was glad to accept then, but the betrayal of the people in refusing to put the law in operation changed the situation and caused all the trouble that has since occurred. It is all the result of the government's abject submission to Carsonism.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

The business situation is in rather a disturbed condition and it will be some weeks before any improvement comes.

The slump in the price of cotton has much to do with the disturbance in the textile industry and the refusal of the public to buy is another factor almost equally deploable. Most of the reductions announced in textile fabrics will not take effect till next summer, but the merchants are cutting prices and those who have carried a big stock will probably sell at a loss during this period of unsettled values.

This, however, can be relied upon that so long as wages are not reduced there will be no possibility of prices returning to the pre-war level. The refusal of the public to buy has closed the mills and if persisted in, it will also cut wages. It is bad policy. The retail merchants are now between the upper and the nether millstone, as it were, and many of them are likely to lose as much by falling prices as they gained during the war by rising prices.

TO SAVE THE CHILDREN

Herbert Hoover's appeal in behalf of the starving children of Europe is sinking deeply into the public mind in this country and is likely to bring good results. The Literary Digest has taken up the movement and it is also favored by many of the leading papers of the country. The people of this country can have but slight conception of what the conditions are in Austria and some other countries of Europe in which it is difficult to obtain food at any price and in which the poor people are entirely dependent upon public charity. In Austria the terms of food are added to those of hunger as fuel is almost as scarce as food. The peace congress, I would guess, passed a sentence of death upon Austria in depriving that what remains of the empire, should be deprived of the material resources necessary to the nation's existence. The peace congress will be a great success if it does not meet a similar fate.

The young man was giving a graphic account of a narrow escape he had had from an enraged bull.

"I seized him by the tail," he exclaimed, "and there I was! I was afraid to hold on, and I dare not let go!"

"Between the horns of a dilemma, as it were," ventured Miss Dubious.

"No," replied the young man. "I wasn't between the horns at all; and, besides, he wasn't a dilemma, he was a Jersey."

Love and Discretion
As the Londoner sat in the village inn, drinking and chatting with the local residents, he got on the subject of married life. He advanced the opinion that true happiness was more often to be found in the peaceful country than amid the turmoil of a town.

"Well, I am so sure about that," said one old chap. "But I do know as I sat last night and held my old woman's hands for two hours by the clock."

"There," said the visitor in triumph. "That upholds my argument and shows how much you love her!"

"Love her?" gasped the old chap. "Why, if I'd let go she'd have scratched my blushing eyes out!"—Houston Post.

Her Indian Summer
She is a little old grandmother—exactly 74 years old. And quite a busy little creature she is, knitting stockings for this niece, a seater for this grandson and tending late for her newest great-grandchild. Her daughter, with whom she lives, the other day remonstrated with her for working so hard. "You don't have to work so hard now, mother," she said. "You've worked all through your summer of life and now at autumn you surely should have a rest." "I'm not having an autumn of frost and decay," the old woman indignantly protested. "My life is too beautiful and too fruitful to label it that way. It's an Indian summer. When I was young I used to watch old people having autumn when they fretted everybody and were miserable themselves. It worried me because I knew that some day I would be old and I didn't want to make any one, not even myself, miserable. And one autumn I enjoyed Indian summer so much that I decided to have an Indian summer in my life. And," half indignantly, "I don't intend to have you or any other person throwing frost on it to ruin it, either."—Indianapolis News.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

A dainty pink envelope arrived in the mail the other day. It is such an envelope as arouses anticipations as to what its contents may be. It was of the size that stamped it as ultra-fashionable. The superscription was in the elegant cursive of a woman more than ultra-fashionable. What was a brief note. It asked: "Why don't you have a 'Woman About Town' column in The Sun? I think it would be just splendid. Women are voters and we should not longer be neglected." "Florence" was the signature beneath the note. If, somewhat familiar "Yours truly," it told the truth, the suggestion of Florence is worth considering. It is going over to the boss, and I can say to Florence that it will receive careful and thoughtful consideration. The trouble with such suggestions—or one of them at least—would probably be that if it were to be carried in quality it would have to be conducted by a man. It is to be feared that a woman would confine her about-towning too much to the streets where the show windows are most attractive and that her stories would lack the human interest that comes from peering into all sorts and conditions of places. Then, too, it is a fact that editors have found that when they wish to produce feminine news that is really grabbed up and read with pleasure by women it is usually necessary to find a man to do the writing. Most of the best women's pages, and women's magazines, are conducted by men. I know one expert who for years has written "Advice to the Lover" that grips feminine hearts and keeps them constantly crying, like little Oliver, for "more," who wears No. 17 shoes, a 17 collar, smokes big black Havanas, and has three dogs, relieved me, and I am now on the 4th bottle, and can say I have never taken any medicine that has done me so much good. I am feeling better than I ever did since my operations. I am gaining in health and flesh rapidly. I now weigh 145 lbs. —Mrs. Hattie Sharpe, 1018 Ridge St., Rock, Ind.

She Had Steady Pains Across Back

Boston Woman Tells Others How They Can Save Themselves Much Misery

"About three years ago, while I was in a run-down condition, I caught a severe cold which left me with lumbago," says Mrs. Nellie Corey, of No. 117 Maverick street, East Boston, Mass.

"I had a dull, aching pain extending across my back and the muscles were so stiff and sore that I could not bend over. Finally I became so bad that I was down flat in bed for three weeks and could not move. I lost flesh so rapidly that I was reduced almost to a skeleton. I only weighed 97 pounds."

"A friend of mine had been restored to health by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I had only taken them three weeks before the pains across my back went away and I grew stronger. I am now a healthy, well-gained my lost flesh. I weigh 150 pounds now. I seldom have an ache or a pain, my appetite is good and my work never tires me out. I am glad to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and whenever I need a tonic I shall use them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a direct action in lumbago and rheumatism because they enrich the blood and tend to enable it to throw off the poisons of the disease. So long as the blood is kept rich and red there is not much danger of a return of the disease.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 60 cents per box, postpaid. Write today for a copy of the free booklet, "Building Up the Blood."—Adv.

Quarter Century Ago

The marriage of Mr. George Stevens and Miss Georgiana Thompson occurred November 13 at the home of the bride's mother, 155 Ludlum street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. L. Went to Europe
Says the old Sun:

"The following named Lowell people are to leave Boston November 15 for the old country on the Cunard line steamer Cephalonia: Miss Maggie Ford, Sarah McBride, Minnie McGuinness, Mrs. Jane Varley, Arthur Varley, Jennie Graham, Patrick Byrnes and George H. Buchanan."

In those days there was no talk of passports and no high rates. A trip to Europe was an inexpensive vacation.

Florist McMannon
Says the old Sun:

"Our well known florist, James McMannon, has completed his new home and he is as happy as a bee in high clover. James brought before the land bloom was started in Draught and he has built a large greenhouse where he intends to raise his cut flowers and have also a large nursery for trees."

Jim has succeeded in all his undertakings of late. He is a hustler. He started out with a determination to get the best of his efforts.

The McMannon nursery was burned down in 1914, causing a loss of $25,000. The chief item of loss was the destruction of a fine pumping plant. Mr. McMannon at the time thought he should have had help from Lowell, but none was given. He has now a steel and copper water reservoir that holds 50,000 gallons. Just at present he is most interested in the work of his boys in football—James, member of the Princeton team and John of the local high school team. He has a daughter a teacher in the high school.

St. Joseph's Bazaar
From the old Sun:

The people of St. Joseph's parish opened an enjoyable three days' bazaar in Huntington hall last evening for the benefit of the poor of the parish, and the first night's festivities were attended by a large audience. Those who attended the refreshment tables were: Mr. Joseph, the bazaar.

The following from the old Sun records the famous fight between Peter Maher and Steve O'Donnell:

"MASPERH, L. L. Nov. 12—The Empire Athletic Club arena was crowded last night by representatives of the sporting element from many cities to see the long promised mill between Peter Maher, the Irish champion, and Steve O'Donnell of Australia, who has been so long associated with Jim Corbett as his sparring partner."

O'Donnell was the first to enter the ring, and Maher followed a minute later. The men at once got together and Maher quickly smashed his right on O'Donnell's jaw. O'Donnell fell like a log, but regained his feet as the referee counted seven. Maher gave him no quarter and fanned the Australian with another blow on the jaw with his right. This time O'Donnell lay down for nine seconds. The moment he got up, Maher held him in the same corner and sent his left with sledge-hammer force on the right jaw. O'Donnell fell flat on his back and after being counted out had to be carried to his corner, while the referee announced Maher the winner."

Rev. C. E. Fisher
The following from the old Sun shows that it was 25 years ago that the Universalist church called its present pastor:

"Rev. C. E. Fisher, of Utica, N. Y., has accepted a call to the First Universalist church as pastor. He will begin his pastorate on the first Sunday in December."

Rev. Mr. Fisher has had a successful pastorate here in Lowell and he is highly esteemed by all who know him. THE OLD TIMER.

D.S.M. FOR EDISON
ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 13.—Thomas A. Edison has been awarded a distinguished service medal by Secretary Daniels. It was announced here yesterday by the inventor's secretary. The citation accompanying the decoration, which was sent through the mails, reads: "For distinguished service in a position of responsibility as president of the naval consulting board."

There is reference to the wearing of carriages in Genesis.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

Mill Stories for Mill Workers

What represents about six million dollars runs alongside of and under the streets of Lowell every year. It isn't money, of course. It is potential cash, though. The stream does not have a golden appearance. Some of it dipped up in the hand turns out to be water. It is water power—white coal. If water can be compared to backbone, it is the backbone of Lowell. Take it away and the city would probably go on much the same, but it hasn't been there in the beginning there would have been no city.

When Nature set the jagged ledges up on end at Pawtucket falls she very likely had little thought that she was laying the foundation for a big town in which 115,000 people should live, move and have their being. The Indians were the first ones to discover that the falls had particular uses. One of them was to afford an excellent place for fishing. Eels especially abounded in the days when the red man cast his codfish-spine hook into the waters.

Later lumbermen, cutting timber in the northern woods, found the falls a hindrance to their business. Therefore, in 1792, just after the United States had got started, housekeeping on its own hook, the oldest corporation in Lowell was formed. It was given the name of "The Proprietors of the Locks and Canals on the Merrimack River." What is now known as the Pawtucket canal was built. Its purpose was not to furnish water power, but to afford a way by which timber could be taken around the falls instead of being rent and smashed in going over them.

Merrimack Company Arrives
Then, in 1825, the Merrimack Manufacturing company came and started developing the water power along the lines that we know today. Later the development work that had been done by the Merrimack was taken over by the Canal company. Thus from the beginning the Locks and Canals company has been interested in navigation and water power. It is classified for purposes of taxation, however, as an irrigation company. What it irrigates no one has ever been able to discover.

Statistics are sometimes interesting if there are not too many of them. Here are a few. The water wheels in the mills drawing power from the Merrimack have a capacity of 20,000 horsepower. If they were all running at once. As a matter of fact, though, not more than 25,000 horsepower is used at any one time, and the average for the year is about 18,000 horse power. The steam power of the mills is 36,000 horse power. Thus the normal power of Lowell is about one-third steam and two-thirds water.

The estimated value of the water power in dollars and cents, given at the beginning of this article, is based on an average of 18,000 horsepower for 24 hours six days in the week and 52 weeks in the year, with coal at $5 per ton. There is a general belief that water power is much cheaper than steam power. It all depends. At the present time, with coal at a peak price, the white coal available in Lowell mills furnishes power at about one-half the cost of black diamonds. With coal at $5 per ton it is probable that the costs would be about equal.

Solid and Substantial
No one who is familiar with Lowell needs to be told that the Locks and Canals on the Merrimack river is one of the solid and substantial concerns of the city. Its dingy old building in Broadway has been a landmark for generations. It typifies the company's conservatism. If it is dingy without it is more dingy within. Its well-worn floors, its darkened walls, its antique furnishings all proclaim that "we are a part of the things that go on undisturbed in the midst of a world of change." From the big office in which Engineer Arthur T. Sanford directs the affairs of the corporation, to the rooms where draughtsmen bend over interminable maps, the apartment of the paymaster, with its safe big enough for a small family to set-up housekeeping in, the whole place might have

Here a word about the man who bosses the job of keeping the water wheels supplied with potential power. Arthur T. Sanford is officially known as "engineer." Most of his predecessors on the job were called "agents."

The first agent was that genius—Kirk Boot—to whom, perhaps, more than any other one person Lowell owes her start in life. He served from 1822 to 1837. Then came Joseph Milton, who was only in office for a single year, but followed by Joseph Boot in 1838. He held the place until 1845, when James B. Francis took the job to hold on to it until 1855.

Under Mr. Francis, George W. Whistler served for a time as assistant engineer and the event happened that led later to some dispute and misunderstanding. James McNeill Whistler, a son, who acquired fame as an artist and in other ways, was born in Lowell.

San Follows Father
When, ripe in years and rich in technical knowledge and honors, Mr. Francis retired, he was succeeded by his son, Col. James Francis. He held the place until 1898. Then came Hiram P. Miller, and for the first time the title "engineer" was used instead of "agent."

The present engineer, Mr. Sanford, joined the company's forces in 1891. Until 1917 he served as assistant engineer.

The company has a president in Boston, C. P. Baker. The treasurer is Fred A. Fletcher. The shares in the company are owned by the Lowell mills, and the mill treasurers are the directors.

About fifty men are now carried on the corporation's payroll. Fifteen of these are engineers and the rest yardmen. Such an ancient organization appropriately has some old employees. William E. Badger, in charge of land matters, has held his present job since 1882. Francis E. Appleton, purchasing agent, entered the company's employ in the same year. Inoch Young, whom all Lowellers know, and who died about five years ago, served the concern for over fifty years.

The Locks and Canals company furnishes water power and is classified as an irrigation company. It also has another job on its hands that is unique. It is said that no other concern in the country has similar work entrusted to its hands. It is charged with the duty of supplying water for the protection of the mills from fire.

This doesn't end the concern's outside jobs, though. It is charged by the state with maintaining a dozen bridges. Whenever a canal, when it was built, crossed a highway, the corporation had to build a bridge and keep it there in condition for travel forever afterward. Four of the bridges have been rebuilt in the last three years, and two more are now undergoing construction.

What a singular and interesting company builds it is hard to say. The substantial character of its construction is shown in the new U.I. Brewery bridge, connecting Thorndike and Fletcher streets, and High bridge on Pawtucket street that is now being rebuilt.

TOMORROW RED CROSS SUNDAY
WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The uncompleted work of the American Red Cross in Europe will be emphasized in sermons in churches throughout the country tomorrow, which has been designated as Red Cross Sunday. Dr. Livingstone Farrand, chairman of the central committee of the Red Cross, said today. Thousands of ministers are expected to discuss the organization's relief work and to urge the public to continue to support it.

SEEKING INFORMATION
If there are any relatives in Lowell or surrounding towns of George W. Raynes, musician who recently died in Eau Claire, Wis., they are asked to communicate at once with A. D. Carroll, secretary of the Chippewa Valley Musicians' association, Local No. 318, at Eau Claire. Mr. Raynes arrived in Eau Claire from Milwaukee about a year ago, according to Mr. Carroll, and passed away Nov. 4. Not much was known of him, but he was in the line of having relatives in the east. He belonged to the Musicians' union in the western city.

FOR THANKSGIVING DAY

Pres. Wilson Issues Proclamation—Says Nation Secure and Prosperous

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—President Wilson issued his Thanksgiving proclamation last night, saying that "in plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future," and setting aside Thursday, Nov. 25, for the usual observance. The text follows:

"The season approaches when it behooves us to turn from the distractions and preoccupations of our daily life, that we may contemplate the mercies which have been vouchsafed to us and render heartfelt and unfeigned thanks unto God for his manifold goodness. This is an old observance of the American people deeply imbedded in our thought and habit. The burdens and the stresses of life have their own insistence.

"We have abundant cause for thanksgiving. The lesions of the war are rapidly healing. The great army of free men which America sent to the defense of liberty, returning to the grateful embrace of the nation, has resumed the useful pursuits of peace as simply and as promptly as it rushed to arms in obedience to the country's call. The equal justice of our laws has received steady vindication in the support of a law-abiding people against various and sinister attacks, which have reflected only the baser agitations of our own heedless passing.

"In plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future. Its duties and its opportunities. May we have vision to discern our duties; the strength, both of hand and resolve, to discharge them; and the soundness of heart to realize that the truest opportunities are those of service.

"In a spirit, then, of devotion and stewardship, we should give thanks in our hearts and dedicate ourselves to the service of God's merciful and loving purposes to his children.

Therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the 25th day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and I call upon my countrymen to cease from their ordinary tasks and avocations upon that day, giving it up to the remembrance of God and his blessings and their dutiful and grateful acknowledgments."

MEN'S MEETING
The sedone big men's meeting of the series being conducted by the Y.M.C.A. will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3.30 in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium. Dr. William A. Bartlett of Boston and Chicago will be the speaker and will show over a hundred beautifully colored slides depicting conditions in devastated Europe. Dr. Bartlett is widely known throughout the east and has an enviable reputation as a public speaker.

During the past two months he has told the story in nearly every large city in the east and the men of Lowell will have a rare opportunity Sunday to hear this vigorous speaker. The meeting will be for men only.

BAKER'S REMNANTS
Eight years ago, in a room one fifth as large as the store they now occupy, Baker & Company had remnants only. But a rush of thrifty buyers made it necessary to add regular goods. They began to buy full rolls from the mills for spot cash, and sell at a very small profit, to satisfy the demand for good bargains which the remnants created. Their customers tell them now that they have the largest and best stock of woolsens in the city. Their new location is at 641 Merrimack street.

"With the prevailing high prices of lumber, labor and of building materials there doesn't seem to be any great desire on the part of individuals to build and until these high prices come down more than a little the same condition undoubtedly will prevail."

John J. McPadden

Announces His Candidacy

To the Citizens of Lowell:

Confident that you are not averse to the infusion of new blood into the conduct of your city affairs, and that you welcome any man's candidacy, be he young or old, should it offer a clean-cut and able administration of public office, I present my candidacy for the office of Alderman, based solely upon such an assurance to you.

I have an ambition to enter public life. The opportunities to seek elective office in this city are indeed limited. One must start in as a candidate for alderman. There is no lower elective office to which one may aspire to win commendation in the public service. I have not been a perennial candidate nor may you judge my capacity and ability by any previous service in public office. This is perhaps a handicap to a certain extent. Yet, if an honorable ambition to enter public life is a guarantee of earnestness and sincerity of purpose in the discharge of public duty, may you not look with favor upon my candidacy?

The fact that I am not well known in a public sense nor previously held office, is not an argument of weakness or incapacity to administer satisfactorily public affairs. It is true that the candidacy of the perennial candidates so-called enables you to judge quite accurately what you may expect should you favor their selection. Why not, however, take a chance with an unknown quantity? Surely the standard set by such well known candidates is not difficult to attain or surpass, and you might come nearer the goal of COMPETENT PUBLIC SERVICE.

I was born in Lowell twenty-eight years ago; a graduate of the High School, also graduate of Holy Cross College 1918, and American City Bureau. For about two years held a position as assistant superintendent John Hancock Insurance Company, and am now engaged in the Real Estate and Insurance business.

My candidacy does not offer a panacea for all public ills—that would be too much to expect. It does offer, however, a broad minded and serious conception of public office, and an earnest desire to win public approval by efficient public conduct. May I ask you to take a chance with me? I will not disappoint you.

Signed, JOHN J. MCPADDEN, 19 Myrtle Street.

Hundreds of Immigrants Thrown Into Panic When Steamers Collided off New York

VESSEL BEACHED TO PREVENT LOSS

Spanish Steamer and Vessel From Galveston Are Damaged in Crash

Early Reports of Many Jumping Overboard Denied by Ship Owners

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Under the very shadow of the Statue of Liberty, several hundred immigrants aboard the Spanish Royal Mail steamship Montserrat were thrown into a panic today when their vessel and the steamer San Marcos from Galveston met in collision while they were moving in from quarantine.

Captain Muslera of the Montserrat headed his vessel for the Brooklyn shore and beached her before she sank. The San Marcos, a Clyde-Mallory freighter carrying no passengers, was able to make her pier with her bow smashed in.

Passengers on the Montserrat were lining the rail, straining their eyes to catch the first sight of New York's skyline, when the crash came.
They were thrown into a panic and first reports had it that several had jumped overboard.

This, however, was denied by the company, which stated word received from the vessel indicated that only one man had leaped from the vessel. He fell on the deck of a tugboat, and later was taken to the Ellis Island hospital.

The San Marcos reported no one injured aboard her.

INVESTIGATING FIRE IN BROOKS STREET

Frank E. Hale, of Boston, connected with the state police, arrived in this city this noon for the purpose of conducting an investigation in connection with the Brooks street fire Thursday night, which caused the death of Constantine, Vasilev and Catherine Parlonas, aged seven, five and three years, respectively, children of Mr. and Mrs. George Parlonas.
Officer Hale and Chief Saunders of the local fire department went to the scene of the fire this afternoon and after examining the premises they questioned the father and mother of the children in an endeavor to throw some light on the cause of the grievous tragedy. They will make a report of their findings later. The bodies of the three little victims, which are now at the funeral parlors of undertakers C. H. Mott's Sons, will be buried Monday afternoon, the time to be announced later.

Street Car Men Protest Against Order Issued by Railway Trustees

Something more than a mild sensation was created in local street car circles by the issuance of an order by the board of public trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts street railway serving notice that "further criticism" of one-man cars by employees "will not be tolerated. It was stated by an official of the local street carmen's union today that it was probable that action would be taken by the officials of the organization to protest to the trustees against the issuance of the order. It was stated that there was a serious possibility that should any of the men be discharged for disobeying the commands a tense situation would be created.
"We look upon the order," said one of the leading members of the union,
"as an attempt to import into Lowell the conditions of Russia in the darkest days of the czar. Are we to lose the right of free speech because we happen to work for the Eastern Massachusetts? Must we work on cars that we believe are not safe and not utter a word of protest? What will the public think of it, if we, who

COURSES HERE FOR TRADE TEACHERS

The opening of continuation schools, junior high schools and a large number of new vocational schools has caused a great demand for trade teachers in all parts of Massachusetts and to meet this demand the state board of education is conducting classes in various branches of which Lowell is one, so that Lowell men who have had trade experience and wish to become teachers will have an opportunity to receive the proper preparatory training.

Thomas F. Fisher, principal of the Lowell Vocational school, has been delegated to have charge of these training classes in Lowell and Mr. Fisher is hoped that they will be opened in the near future at the Vocational school in Broadway. Registration will open next week and those interested may register with Principal Fisher any school day during the week or on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evening.
Applicants must be between the ages of 21 and 40, must be high school graduates or must have had an education of similar character. They must also be in good health and have the proper temperament and personality for teachers.

Salaries for this profession range from $1500 to $2500 for day teachers and from $250 to $300 an evening for trade extension teachers. There is at present a vacancy in the electrical department of the local Vocational school and so great is the demand for teachers that those who take the course of lessons to be given here should have no difficulty in securing positions upon its completion. The course will run for 23 weeks, two evenings per week, from 7.30 to 9.30 o'clock. All the more complicated subjects which will be studied will include trade analysis, laying out courses of study, methods of teaching, lesson planning and practice teaching.

STREET LABORERS

Ability to Write Letters of Elementary Knowledge of Arithmetic Not Necessary—Experience Prime Requisite

This ability to write a letter or an elementary knowledge of arithmetic are not essential qualifications for laborers or foremen of street, sewer and water departments, Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy says.

The commissioner has received a letter from Joseph P. Riley, director of the examination bureau of the civil service commission, stating that examinations for foremen in these departments are to be held in December and he wishes to ascertain the commissioner's opinion of the advisability of including letter writing and elementary arithmetic as parts of the examinations or whether more experience is sufficient qualification.

Mr. Murphy has replied that he believes experience is the prime requisite and that the other qualifications mentioned are not necessary. Some of the most valuable men of his department might lose their jobs, he says, if their worth was to be judged by their letter writing and arithmetical ability.

BLACK AND TANS MAKE THREAT

CORK, Nov. 13.—Reprisals have been threatened in connection with the abduction of Thomas Griffin, a warden of the Cork jail, who was kidnapped on Oct. 13 while on the way to his home.
The following notice was found posted today on the front door of the offices of the Cork Examiner:

"Final notice. If Warden Griffin is not released within 48 hours Cork will remember his abduction."

(Signed)

"By Order of the Black and Tans."

BELFAST, Ireland, Nov. 13.—Sinn

RED CROSS DRIVE LAGS

Effort Being Made Today to Get Teams of Women

Workers Started

The Red Cross drive for funds is lagging behind the pace set in previous years, according to a statement by Campaign Manager Fred P. Hayward.

Last year $16,000 was raised in Lowell for the world's greatest mother.
This year it had been hoped that the town would go over the top for at least the same amount.

If the ambition is to be realized, it is stated, there will have to be some punch put into the drive that will start things moving faster than they have been.

The campaign was handicapped at the beginning by the late arrival of necessary supplies. These did not all come to hand until Thursday, but have now all been distributed.

Nine teams of men are out on the job of trying to convince people of their duty to get behind the most important agency for philanthropy and mercy in the world.

No official reports have yet been made of the result of the teams' work.

DECREASE IN THE LOCAL DEATH RATE

There was a material decrease in the local death rate this week as compared with the two previous weeks.
There was also a drop in the number of cases of measles, reported, but there were more diphtheria cases than usual.

The mortality rate for the week was 11.99 in comparison with 15.88 and 13.53 for the preceding weeks. There were 26 deaths as against 31 and 30.
There were ten deaths of children under five years and eight of these were less than a year old. Pneumonia caused two deaths.

Infectious diseases reported were the following: Diphtheria, 15; scarlet fever, 3; measles, 37; tuberculosis, 6. In the corresponding week of 1919 there were 30 deaths, 12 of them of children under five and ten of children under one.

50,000 Shivering Spectators See Yale and Princeton in Annual Gridiron Battle Today

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 13.—Ideal football weather was in prospect today for the annual gridiron battle of Yale and Princeton as the day broke clear and cold. The Yale squad arrived early in the day and was sent through a brief signal drill in the stadium.

Princeton had its last workout yesterday. Coaches of both elevens said their men were in excellent condition.

The enthusiasm which grows out of long standing traditions of college rivalry apparently was greater here today than ever before. The streets of the little college town early were crowded with knickerbockered upper classmen and black capped freshmen wearing large orange and black jerseys bearing the command in large black letters "Beat Yale."

The lineup and officials:

YALE	Position	PRINCETON
Cutler	left end	Legends
Inte	left tackle	Keck
Acosta	left guard	McMahon
Cross	center	H. A. Callahan
Tim Callahan	right guard	Dickinson
Walker	right tackle	Looper
Dilworth	right end	Stinson
Murphy	quarterback	Louie
Dilworth	right end	Stinson
Kempson	quarterback	Louie
Kelly	right halfback	Gilroy
Jordan	fullback	Murray

Officials: W. G. Crowell, Swarthmore, referee; T. J. Thorpe, Columbia, umpire; Y. A. Schwartz, Brown, field judge; G. N. Bankhart, Dartmouth, head linesman.

At 1.45 p. m. the Yale squad came on the field and began the customary drill of putting, drop-kicking and forward passing. A few minutes later the Princeton squad followed and the assembling spectators were offered a spectacle of the rival eleven running through signal drills on the same gridiron.

Weather conditions were far more ideal for the players than the spectators. Although the sun shone from an almost cloudless sky the temperature was below the freezing point and a strong wind blew in through the open end of the stadium interfering with the direction of kicks and making overcoats, steamer rugs and bearskin rugs an absolute necessity for the fifty thousand spectators.
The field of play was hard, dry and fast.

Princeton Wins Toss

Shortly after 2 o'clock the Callahan brothers, Captain, Tim of Yale and Captain, Mike of Princeton, met in the center of the gridiron for the officials of the game and after a short conference tossed a coin for the privilege of opening the play.

The Princeton leader correctly called the turn on the coin and elected to kick off.

The Princeton kickoff with the wind at its back crossed the Yale goal line and was run back 12 yards.

On the first lineup Murphy punted to midfield where Louie fumbled the ball, recovered it, but was thrown out of bounds on Princeton's 33 yard line.

Murray Makes Long Run

The first lineup by Princeton was followed by a sweeping run around Dilworth, Murray carrying the ball and it appeared as though he would score a touchdown but he was thrown out of bounds on Yale's 23 yard line. A similar run around Dilworth was good for five yards and Princeton was penalized five yards for offside play.

Louie's forward pass was intercepted by Yale on her ten yard line and Murphy on the first scrimmage shipped outside of Keck for seven yards.

Yale punted on the second down, the ball being caught by Louie in the midfield and run back to Yale's 35 yard line before he was thrown.

Murray, aided by excellent interference, cut inside of Cutler for six yards.

A long forward pass by Louie was grounded and the ball brought back. A short forward pass Murray to Gilroy gave Princeton first down on Yale's 22 yard line. Murray swept around end for a gain of six yards but Yale was penalized fifteen yards for holding.

Gilroy's quick plunge in the center of the Yale line was stopped dead. A forward pass by Murray which over-shot the receiver, grounded.

Murray tried another forward pass the ball grounding close to Yale's goal line. He next attempted to punt but the ball was blocked and recovered by Gilroy without gain. It was the Tigers' ball for a first down at midfield. Murray gained three yards at left end of the Yale line, and then, in a sweeping run across the field, picked up four more on the right wing of the Yale line.

The Tigers next tried the center of the line scrimmage but the Yale heavyweights repulsed and Murray's short punt went out of bound on Yale's 17 yard line.

Murray punted on the first lineup and Murray signalled for a fair catch but fumbled and recovered on Yale's 47 yard line.

Davis Replaced Stinson

Gilroy's charge into Yale's left wing did not advance the ball a foot, and line was called while Davis replaced Stinson at Princeton's right end.

Centre Cross also was injured and was withdrawn in favor of Gilroy.
From a forward pass formation Murray attempted a broken field run but was thrown by Cutler without gain.

Louie made four yards at the Yale center and then punted over the Yale goal line.

From his own 20 yard line Murphy punted for Yale on the first lineup. Murray making the catch and being thrown on Princeton's 44 yard line. A forward pass Murray to Gilroy, followed by a brilliant run, gave Princeton the ball on Yale's 30 yard line.

Murray tried another to Davis but Jordan knocked the ball down for an incomplete pass.

Murray next fumbled Captain Callahan's pass which was low and was thrown for a loss of ten yards.

Louie picked up a scant yard at the center of the Yale line, and Murray punted the ball rolling out of bounds, on reaching the Yale goal line.

Yale players permitted the ball to roll across the goal line and the break forced Murray to punt five yards behind his own goal line.

His kick was high but did not carry far and Princeton resumed her attack on Yale's 28 yard line. Gilroy made five yards through Acosta. Louie lost three yards trying to circle Yale's left end. Louie tried a forward pass to Gilroy for a six yard gain and the period ended before the teams could line up.

SECOND PERIOD

Standing on Yale's 35 yard line Murray dropped a punt field goal for the first three points of the game.

The goal was made on the first lineup of the second period.

Murphy kicked off for Yale and Murray caught for Princeton running the ball back to the Tigers' 25 yard line before he was finally stopped. A forward pass, Murray to Gilroy, made it first down on Princeton's 25 yard line and a line plunge by Gilroy added another five for the Tigers.

Louie, from a forward pass formation, ran across the field and out of bounds for a gain of three yards.

Murray made it first down at the exact center of the field after a brilliant run which ended with a crashing tackle by Captain Tim Callahan for the Ellis.

Umpire Thorpe had detected holding in the Princeton line, however, and the Tigers were penalized 15 yards and put the ball in play on their own 33rd yard line again. Louie immediately punted, the ball going out of bounds on Yale's 41 yard line.

Kelly in a line plunge picked up three yards at the right side of the Tiger line.

Jordan could not gain a foot on the other side of the Princeton wing.

Murphy circled Louie for three yards before running into the Princeton secondary defenses.

Murray next punted out of bounds on Princeton's 16 yard line.

Gilroy broke through the right side of the Yale line and ran to his 42 yard line before he was brought down by Kelly.

Murray's forward pass was grounded and he lost three yards trying to sprint around Cutler.

Players in Argument

Louie got off a short punt which went out of bounds on Yale's 43 yard line and within most of the players were squabbling for the ball. A lively argument broke out between several Yale and Princeton players which was quelled by the officials before fistcuffs developed.

Kelly Makes Great Gain

Kelly broke clear through the Princeton forwards and made it a first down on Princeton's 44-yard line before he was stopped by close to half of the Tiger team. Jordan then smashed his way through Dickinson for another two yards and then Kelly in his third lineup made it first down on Princeton's 34-yard mark.

A forward pass developing from a run by Kelly, the ball going to Dil-worth, gained five yards.

TUMULT TO BE JUDGE OF CUSTOMS COURT

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—President Wilson has picked out a job for Joseph Patrick Tumulty, his secretary, according to trustworthy information that reached democratic politicians here yesterday.

It is chief judge of the United States court of customs appeals, the appointment being for life, at an annual salary of $10,000. The court sits in Washington.

This may explain the purchase by Mrs. Tumulty the other day of the old Sheppard mansion in the national capital. At the time it was suggested that she might be netting for the president.

The chief judgeship of the court is vacant, due to the death during the year of Judge Robert M. Montgomery. It is said that the president has from the first had in mind naming his secretary to this post, and for that reason has refrained from making any appointment before.

CONCRETE ROADWAY FOR CENTRAL BRIDGE

If the project is shown to be feasible, City Engineer Stephen Kearney will recommend to Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy that a concrete roadway be constructed on the Central bridge to replace the wooden plank pavement and plank sidewalks which have been condemned as dangerous for heavy traffic by Mr. Kearney and E. D. Walker, engineer of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co.

Mr. Kearney is now working on plans for the reconstruction of the bridge so that electric car traffic, which was discontinued Thursday evening, may be resumed there as speedily as possible. He has in mind three different schemes of repair which will be presented to the municipal council at an early date that they may select whichever they deem best. Personally, Mr. Kearney is in favor of a concrete roadway if the under-structure of the bridge will stand it.

Thomas Lee, manager of the Lowell district of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., today addressed a letter to the municipal council, telling them of the condition of the bridge, the necessity for the reconstruction of the bridge so that electric car traffic and his willingness to cooperate in every way possible to bring about a speedy relief of the present situation.

The railway company, he says, is willing to tear up the tracks that are now on the bridge and to relay them whenever the city gives the go-ahead. Urges immediate action and points out that the bridge has not been painted in 15 years.

According to a legislative act, no part of the expense of the repair or renewal of the bridge will be imposed on the railway company. It must be borne wholly by the city.

City Engineer Kearney says that before any improvements can be made on the bridge, they will have to be approved by the public utilities commission. Prof. Lewis E. Moore, engineer of the commission, inspected the bridge yesterday and holds the same opinion as Messrs. Kearney and Walker—that the bridge is in a state of disrepair.

In the meantime, residents of Centralville and its outlying surroundings are compelled to walk across the bridge in coming to or from the center of the city. One-man cars carry passengers as far as the southerly end of the bridge and then they must walk to the junction of Bridge and First streets to get cars for Lawrence, Dracut, Lakeview, Christian Hill and Hovey square.

Children Carried to Safety
When Fire Destroyed Revere Block Today

REVERE, Mass., Nov. 12.—Children were taken down over ladders or through smoke-choked halls today by firemen and by parents who were forced to the streets by fire in a six-story tenement house. The building is a thickly-populated neighborhood of frame dwellings, and there was some excitement and many homes were abandoned when sparks were whipped about by a brisk wind. Two firemen were overcome by smoke in the course of their rescue work. The building was almost destroyed at a loss of about $10,000.

CLAMOR FOR COAL

Doctor's Certificate of Necessity Required

HUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 12.—A doctor's certificate of necessity was required to secure a ton of coal here today and with the thermometer around 20 degrees above zero, thousands of families with empty coal bins were clamoring for fuel. A marked shortage in the supply of natural gas intensified the demand.

The chamber of commerce, anticipating the situation, has secured an emergency supply of coal and distribution in ten lots will begin tomorrow.

STATISTICS ON CRIME

Juvenile Association Reports Improvement in Some Lines and Increase of Crime in Others Under Prohibition

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—It is shown by statistics from the Juvenile Protective association that complaints of adult contribution to child delinquency on the part of liquor dealers have been cut in half, and insanity complaints reduced 60 per cent.

On the other hand complaints of crimes by children have increased 23 per cent, since prohibition arrived, and more rapidly in the last six months than during the first half of the year.

Other classes of complaints also are shown to have increased, juvenile delinquency has increased 40 per cent, complaints against disorderly houses 100 per cent, or about 100 per cent over the war period, and complaints concerning runaway girls nearly 100 per cent, or 50 per cent, more than during the war period.

for the award of the D.S.C. to Paul M. Spillane of 15 Sargent street, Lowell, Mass., who I understand is at present a member of your force. This recommendation was forwarded originally in December, 1918, while in France, but the Government has not yet reached its proper destination. However, I feel confident that this one will reach the proper authorities and that they will act favorably upon it.

In conclusion, sir, permit me to congratulate you in having the most capable and excellent soldier I ever knew, as a member of your force.

Respectfully yours,
VALENTINE C. JACOB.

New York City, N. Y.

From Valentine C. Jacob—formerly C. O. Co., "M," 101st U. S. Infantry.

To Adjutant General, U. S. Army.

Subject—Recommendation for D.S.C.

1.—Paul M. Spillane, former line sergeant, Company M, 101st U. S. Infantry, is hereby recommended for the award of the Distinguished Service Cross, by his former company commander, Valentine C. Jacob, for extraordinary heroism and devotion to duty in the face of the enemy.

2.—On the 25th of October, 1918, in an offensive action against the enemy, Company M, 101st U. S. Infantry, became more or less disorganized, owing to unusually heavy losses, being inflicted on the enlisted personnel, all the officers being wounded. In two days previous offensive action. At this critical moment, Sergt. Spillane arose to the occasion, took command and reorganized the company and by his own personal display of bravery and dogged determination in the face of heavy enemy machine gun and artillery fire, restored morale, confidence, and aggressiveness to the company. Subsequently Sergt. Spillane again demonstrated sterling qualities of leadership in leading his reorganized company forward through difficult terrain, stubbornly resisted by enemy machine gun and successfully reaching the two objectives assigned his company. Sergt. Spillane organized his newly won objective and remained in command of the company until the 25th of October, when his organization was relieved. Throughout this period Sergt. Spillane continuously exposed himself to heavy enemy fire, going from group to group in his newly organized positions in order that he might give cheer and courage to the men under his command, and it was beyond question largely due to his inspiring example and personality that the objectives gained are unswervingly held through a succession of severe counter attacks.

ALLEGED DRY LAW VIOLATORS IN COURT

Michael J. Caserly, a former liquor dealer, now maintaining a place of business in Fletcher street near the corner of Worthen, was arraigned in police court today on a complaint, charging illegal keeping and exposing for sale of intoxicating liquors. He pleaded not guilty and was put over for another week. Caserly was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officers Clark and Winn who claimed they saw him dump some liquor into the drain behind the bar. They procured some of this liquor and allege that it is whiskey and on further search of the shop they found a small additional quantity.

Edward A. Bruneau and Albert Lamire, arrested in a soft drink establishment in Thorndike street by the same officers were also arraigned for keeping of liquor. The complaint against Bruneau was dismissed, while Lamire was fined $125. The officers testified that they took whiskey from Lamire's hip pocket.

Alec Ravin of Summer street, arrested last night by Officer Clarke for attempted larceny from the Union market in Dudley street, pleaded guilty in court and was given continuance until Nov. 17 for sentence under $300 bail. The police claim Ravin entered the market, purchased merchandise, procured a check for the value of the goods, but erased one of the figures and reduced the check.

Auto Law Violators

Three auto law violators were arraigned. Manuel Peter was fined $10 for operating an automobile without having a license in his possession. Defendant was caught following a near accident in which he was concerned. Joseph Korvick was fined $10 for operating an automobile in Smith street, and failing to give the proper signal at the intersection of Shaw. He pleaded guilty and laid his fault to "neglect."

Rokas Yaskalawach of Haverhill was ordered to pay the minimum fine of $5 for parking in an automobile in the street on North Main street.

Because he was a stranger the court made the fine light.

Joseph Jarkovitz of Andover street was found guilty of drunkenness, continued for one month for sentence and ordered to give $12 per week to his wife.

Held For Grand Jury

In the case of Alfred Ahern, of Hale street, charged with breaking, entering and larceny in the night time from the electrical shop of James Addison in Middlesex street on November 11, called on continuance in police court this morning. Judge Knight ordered defendant under $200 bonds for the grand jury. The complaint charged the larceny of goods with a total value of about $30, but the police found no goods in the defendant's possession. The police produced a witness who testified that he saw Ahern in the vicinity of the store on the night of the break, and a key which they found in Ahern's possession, and which fitted the door through which the break was made.

Defense claimed that the key was one used in the tenement in which Ahern lived and produced others for comparison and further claimed that defendant attended a theatre on the evening the break was made. On this point they produced a young man who claimed he visited the show with Ahern. The prosecution insisted that the defendant was in the vicinity of the store, "did not satisfy beyond a reasonable doubt," of the defendant's guilt. The defense contended that Ahern was a victim of circumstances.

Fined For Larceny

Percy A. Scobie was ordered to pay a fine of $100 for the larceny of four automobile rims, tires and tubes from the Boston and Maine railroad and Daniel P. Shea, connected with the same case, was fined $25 for receiving the stolen goods. The latter appealed and was put under $200 bonds for superior court. The value of the property was placed at $158.

Red Cross Drive Lags

hand, however, have not been as encouraging as it was hoped they might be.

Monday, it is expected that regular reports from team managers will begin to come in and it will be possible to get a better line on the situation.

The leaders also hope that more pep will go into the drive the first of the week.

The drive closes Nov. 25—Thanksgiving day.

This afternoon a special effort was being made by members of the teams to gather in new memberships.

For the most part, the gathering of the women started in the campaign has resulted with indifferent success. Mr. Hayward had planned to place the women's department under the direction of a single head for the whole city. It was then proposed to set teams at work under district managers to canvass the city.

This afternoon the work of getting two teams into the field was started. One was being organized in Pawtucketville by Mrs. Harry Prescott Graves. Another was being started in Belvidere by Mrs. Alice Leahy.

Wanted by Mr. Hayward are women who will volunteer to carry the work forward in Centralville, the Highlands and the Gorham street section of the city. Also he is searching for women who will take charge of the whole city.

Today the name of the E. E. Smith company, Market street, was added to the list of concerns that have gone over the top and are 100 per cent enrolled. Practically all of the banking institutions of the city are now in that list or are believed to be in a fair way of soon getting there. The Old Lowell National bank, Appleton National bank, Central Savings bank and the Washington Savings institution arrived on the honor roll yesterday.

Work of lining-up the policemen for 100 per cent enrollment honors is going forward briskly.

Supt. Redmond Welch is proving a whole Red Cross drive in himself. He is making it his special business to line up the Chinese for membership.

The Chinese are taking a part in the campaign in a big way. Yesterday some of their neighbors, Foster and afternoon Mr. Welch had 97 names on his list as members, another already to be added, and he expects to put the Chinese over the top early next week.

A valuable recruit for the drive was received yesterday when Sergeant Rourke visited headquarters. He is an army veteran with four years' service in his credit. He said that he had personal knowledge of the good work of the Red Cross and wished to help out in the campaign.

Lady Lookabout

Many a good story is told concerning the stability and endurance of the auto automobile. Some are true and some are fiction. Here is one that is absolutely true for many witnessed it.

A Ford touring car coming down Merrimack street suffered a good bump in the rear and on one side, side-swiped, I believe is the technical term, from a street car coming from the same direction. The little Ford was roughly used and thrown violently against a hydrant which it promptly laid low, parallel with the ground. The street car, one man and all, was horsed de combat, likewise the hydrant. The little Ford suffered a bent front axle, who wouldn't?—but finally got off under its own power, leaving destruction in its wake. A joke is a joke, according to whether the laugh is with one or on one. There was no laugh on the Ford in this case.

The Primary Colors

The primary colors: purple, blue, green, yellow, orange and red, had about disappeared from the women's ward in their hurry until this season, when orange so beautifully lights up masses of brown, leather and black. There is a crudeness about pure color which limits its use to small areas in dress which nearly every one has been trained to feel. It is almost with bated breath, then, we see patches of pure orange, of an entire hat, or a scarf, or a sweater, and after a short time we decide that it is beautiful. And a most refreshing feature of this pure orange color, is that one need not be the possessor of a clear and dazzling complexion in order to wear it. Often a woman of sallow and almost featureless complexion takes on a reflected beauty from a bit of this intense color that she never knew all the years she considered blue "her color."

Issues Drastic Order

know best about the cars, cannot afford to let a word get out that may be necessary to protect the public. It is the most drastic order ever issued by any employer of labor in this country. It would fit a gag around our mouths as a condition of our continuing in the employ of the company.

The next regular meeting of the local union is not scheduled to take place until November 23. It is stated that it is hoped that the trustees will modify, or at least not make a serious attempt to enforce the order before that time. If satisfactory attention is not given to the proposed protest, the subject, it is said, is likely to come up for consideration at the next meeting.

When the feeling of the men regarding the promulgation of the new order was brought to the attention of Thomas Lees, district manager of the Eastern Massachusetts, today, he stated that he had no comment to make.

The alleged obnoxious order, signed by all of the public trustees, reads as follows:

"An order having been issued on November 10, 1920, by the public utilities commission, declaring that the one-man cars now operated by the Eastern Massachusetts Street railway company are not a menace to public safety and that neither passengers nor operators have any cause for apprehension in the operation of these cars, the public trustees take this means of serving notice that further criticism of these cars by employees, seeking to mislead and prejudice passengers and the general public, will not be tolerated by the company.

"The public trustees also desire to have it generally known and understood that any and all acts of insubordination by employees will result in the immediate discharge of offenders."

ELKS MEMORIAL EXERCISES

John F. Malloy, formerly deputy internal revenue collector at Boston, will deliver the eulogy at the annual memorial exercises of the Lowell lodge of Elks at the Lowell Opera House Sunday evening, Dec. 5. The memorial exercises will be held in accordance with the annual custom of the Elks lodge all over the country to honor the dead in the corn-field.

Mr. Malloy is a member of the Springfield lodge. The officers of the local lodge and Rev. C. E. Fisher, D.D., will take part in the ceremonies, and there will be singing by the Mendelssohn quartet and Mrs. F. L. Roberts. The exercises will begin at 8 o'clock and the general public is invited.

Between the corn shocks were great round boulders of deep, golden yellow. Pumpkins, you've guessed rightly, my dears. If Peter had been there, he'd surely have had a great feast and found plenty to spare for his wife.

But to Cutie Cottontail's surprise, and Ben Bunny, Jr.'s, and Cobby Coon's, and everybody's, there wasn't a single one of them made into Jack-o'-Lanterns. The place was so dim, you couldn't see to hop over a leaf.

"I've asked Scamper Squirrel running around curiously. 'Why so dark, Mr. Scarecrow?'"

Mr. Scarecrow appeared from behind a corn shock, all tattered and torn. In an old coat and hat and a pair of trousers that had belonged to Farmer Smith. Then he shook hands with his guests all around very cordially, before answering.

"If there were too much light, my friends, you could all tell who each other really are. It isn't well to have too much light at a masquerade party, you know. Now, take my friend here, I'd never guess in the world that he was Mr. Chipmunk."

Chip stretched his mask and pulled down his little yellow jacket and said he was glad of that.

"And" went on Mr. Scarecrow turning to shake hands with some new guests. "If there were any more light, I'd surely know that this gentleman was Mr. Scribble Scratch, the fairy schoolmaster, but as it is, I don't know him at all."

Scribble Scratch, who'd gone as Mr. Adam and was a lot of leaves, was greatly gratified at this and winked at Nick through his false face. Nick and Nancy were dressed as "Babes-in-the-Wood."

Buy a Pot of Paint and Make Your Luggage a Thing of Beauty

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The very latest thing in hand-painted luggage! A young French girl, Elaine Chappelle, has started trunks and handbags on a wild career—it is threatening to become the rage in New York. Beauty used to ston with Tappes' bonnet boxes, but now at the express stores baggage clerks are beginning to doubt their eyes.

And it came about all very simply. Miss Chappelle, an artist, who prior to the discovery, made designs for book covers and posters and sometimes textiles, says:

"I had got tired of seeing battered trunks and suit cases in my house. I have travelled a good bit, and I carry a good deal about with me from place to place. Now, no trunk stands much more than one trip to Paris or other European port without beginning to show signs of wear. The corners get worn, the leather or cloth which covers the framework gets dingy, there are innumerable scratches. It has lost its original bright look, it is depressing, it makes the hotel room gloomy. It is a necessity, but too soon an ugly necessity."

A Pot of Orange Paint

So one day I got a pot of orange, yes orange paint, plain paint, and one pot of the same orange in enamel, and went home, and laying off my coat, turned that trunk around and gave it a good painting with a big brush. Drying it looked so handsome that I went out and bought two pots of orange paint for my handbag—a coat of plain paint first then the enamel. The effect was so startling that I went through my entire collection, including a cabin trunk which had seen many years of use.

"Then I invited my women friends in to tea.

"Need I say that they went mad? Now I have my hands full."

MR. SCARECROW EXPLAINS

"IF THERE WERE ANY MORE LIGHT, I'D SURELY KNOW THAT THIS GENTLEMAN WAS MR. SCRIBBLE SCRATCH, BUT AS IT IS, I DON'T KNOW HIM AT ALL."

The last quarter of the hunter's moon didn't give any too much light for Mr. Scarecrow's masquerade party in the corn-field: just a pale misty glimmer that made shadows look queer, and the cornstalks piled high into shocks looked like miniature mountains.

Between the corn shocks were great round boulders of deep, golden yellow. Pumpkins, you've guessed rightly, my dears. If Peter had been there, he'd surely have had a great feast and found plenty to spare for his wife.

But to Cutie Cottontail's surprise, and Ben Bunny, Jr.'s, and Cobby Coon's, and everybody's, there wasn't a single one of them made into Jack-o'-Lanterns. The place was so dim, you couldn't see to hop over a leaf.

Germany Not to Ask Admission

GENEVA, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Germany will not make a formal application for admission to the League of Nations, but would not ignore an invitation to become a member, said Dr. Hermann Mueller, vice president of the foreign affairs committee of the German Reichstag, in a statement to the Journal de Geneve yesterday. "Germany will not ask the assembly to admit her to the league," he declared, "because such an application would give rise to a sharp discussion in the assembly, for it is known certain states have given indications they would oppose her immediate entry. I do not know whether they have sufficient support to insure the triumph of their viewpoint, but, however that may be, such a discussion would not be without danger to the league itself. Besides, the German government does not consider the league in its present form as perfect. How, indeed, could it be, since, to mention only two states, it includes neither Russia nor the United States, and universality is the fundamental condition of its existence? That, however, does not mean that Germany would maintain a reserved attitude in event of some delegation raising the question of her admission, and if the assembly should accept her, Germany would not decline an invitation resulting from such a decision."

Japan and U. S. Reach Agreement

TOKIO, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Newspapers of this city report the Japanese and American governments have reached an agreement in principle relative to the exclusion of Japanese laborers from the United States. It is asserted, however, that there is a disagreement regarding methods to be employed. America is understood to desire provisions for exclusion embodied in a treaty, but Japan, it is said, regards this procedure humiliating, and as forming a precedent she might be forced to follow in treaties negotiated in future. Japan is declared to consider that measures prohibiting her subjects from emigrating can be taken only on her own initiative. In other respects, the negotiations are progressing, it is reported, and, once this point has been settled, an agreement may be expected.

Honor Memory of Florence Nightingale

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Special ceremonies in honor of the memory of Florence Nightingale, famous English nurse during the Crimean war, were held today by the Red Cross at the base of the Statue of Liberty. The program was planned as a part of the Red Cross annual roll call activities. Representatives of the British, French and Italian governments, and of the various national welfare organizations of this country, as well as officers of the army and navy, attended.

For some time there has been a demand for a large Catholic club house with full facilities for the young men of Lowell and it is to meet this need that the Y.M.C.I. is establishing a building fund. Next week's carnival will be one of the important means taken to secure financial support for the project.

The carnival itself will be a combination of high class vaudeville and general entertainment. The entertainment committee has arranged special fea-

FRIENDS OF IRELAND AT FANEUIL HALL

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—At a meeting of the Friends of Irish Freedom at Faneuil hall last night, Joseph Smith criticized the Red Cross for not extending its work to Ireland to aid the victims of the Black and Tans. He read correspondence from the American Red Cross at Washington showing that all queries in the case were referred to the European committee and that no definite action could be given until the European authorities were heard from. Remarks were made to the effect that British influence would prevent the Red Cross from extending its work to Ireland.

Miss Ada K. Cannon of Iowa summarized some of the alleged outrages by British in Ireland during the last year, saying that 3000 persons have been arrested, 50 innocent civilians put to death, 17,000 raids made on private houses, 476 attacks on unarmed men, women and children and 97 towns "shot up," resulting in thousands of women and children taking to the fields and suffering from cold and exposure at night, from fear of their home communities being attacked.

When she finished, Miss Cannon aroused a great outburst of applause by dryly remarking: "Will someone please page the American Red Cross?" Miss Mary Cullane read impressively the Declaration of Independence of both the United States and of the Irish republic. Each of the speakers referred with gratification to the defeat of the League of Nations and credited the women largely with killing "a covenant designed to reduce the United States to a state of subjection to Great Britain comparable with Ireland's situation."

Miss Cannon asserted that Lloyd George's latest offer to Ireland, "to give her a partnership in the British Empire at the height of its greatness, England reserving to herself control of all Irish ports," means that England proposes to exclude American trade from Irish ports.

Mrs. Mary Mahoney, a Boston newspaperwoman, charged that a large sum of money, the source of which was doubtful, was recently spent locally in spreading propaganda in favor of the League of Nations. Mrs. Mahoney, who was in France not long ago, declared that the French people generally were anxious for the election of Harding because they are opposed to the League of Nations.

She said that the result of the election means "America for Americans, the Stars and Stripes and not an international flag, 'The Star Spangled Banner' and not 'God Save the King.'" Miss Monica Foley, who was credited with having suggested the "thanksgiving" meeting, spoke briefly, and Cornelius J. Desmond recited a poem of his own on the death of Mayor MacSwiney.

WHIST AND DANCE

Members of the committee in charge of the apron table at the coming Catholic club bazaar held a whist and dance in I.O.O.F. hall, Chelmsford, last evening. The early part of the evening was taken up with whist and at the close of the game suitable prizes were awarded the winners. Later general dancing was started and continued till a reasonable hour. Those responsible for the success of the affair were: Mrs. Warren J. Kneeland, general manager; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hazeltine, Miss Mary Hill, Miss Gertrude Mullen and Arthur Pratt.

Judge Landis Elected Chair-

—Remains on Bench

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Peace reigned in baseball today following agreement between the opposing factions to reorganize the game. Federal Judge Kenesaw M. Landis assumed the chairmanship of baseball and will act as a committee of one as a final court of appeal in all matters of dispute. His salary will be $42,500 annually with the understanding that he is to retain his place on the bench at $5,000 a year. The term for which he is chosen is seven years.

Chicago will be headquarters for the baseball commission and offices will be opened immediately.

After receiving the offer from the magnates Judge Landis took Clark Griffith, a personal friend, over to a window.

"Griff," he said, "I'm going to tell you just why I took this job. See those kids down there on the street? See that strange propeller on the wall? Well, that explains my acceptance."

"You see what propeller was on the plane in which my son, Fred, died? Well, while overcast clouds and fog were hanging over the city, the propeller on the plane was broken and it was a matter of time before it would fall. I was afraid to take baseball away from them. Well, while you gentlemen were talking to me I looked up at this propeller and I thought of Fred. Then I thought of his remark in Brooklyn, Griff, we've got to keep baseball on a high standard for the sake of the youngsters—that's why I took the job because I want to help."

LOWELL WINS EXCITING
OVERTIME GAME

Spotting Bridgeport four goals last night, Lowell staged a great rally and after knotting the count in the second period and again in the third, won out in overtime by the score of 7 to 6.

The game was one of the most exciting of the season, with much class play, intermingled with just enough of the strenuous to keep the fans on edge. Bridgeport got away to a fine start and looked rather black for Lowell, but once the old combination got working, the fans were given plenty of opportunity to cheer and they certainly took advantage of it.

The visitors monopolized the goals in the first session, getting four big ones, but by the second, Lowell, led by Doc Harford, Lowell tried hard to penetrate Pence's cage, but the former Lowell goalie was in rare form and prevented a tally.

In the second period just the reverse occurred, with Lowell sending in enough to tie the count. Hart landed the first, Davies the second, then Harford shot in a half-volley, and just before the period ended Davies nicked one, creating a tie.

The score at the beginning of the third stanza, Davies put Lowell out in front of the game for the first time with a beautiful pass from Harford. The score at that time was 4 to 2 in favor of Lowell. Harford then handed one through, Hart sent Lowell into the lead, but the advantage was nullified when Jim Cameron went up the floor and poked one in. A few minutes later the horn sounded and the game went into overtime.

After a brief rest the players went at it again, and all hands cut loose and a few minutes of strenuous endeavor, Harford finally pulled the pill out of a scrum and sent it in for the winning goal. The score, lineup and summary:

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME
ON FAIR GROUNDS

Eddie Cawley, the former Colby star, who when in college was regarded one of the best in the game, will have a chance to win the Lowell-Neposet game on the fair grounds tomorrow. The contest will go a long way toward settling the New England independent football championship, a title now claimed by the Wanderers. Both teams will present their strongest lineups and a bitterly fought gridiron battle is in prospect.

In the visitors' lineup will appear many famous former college and high school stars. They have been playing together all season and among the teams humbled were the Peru Marquette council, K. of C. and the Steamrollers of Trowbridge.

A record crowd is expected to turn out to see the game and the team managers hope that the fans will remain behind the lines, crowding onto the field hampers play and delays the game and as the teams desire to run the game off as quickly as possible to prevent playing in the dark, the cooperation of those on the sidelines is requested.

C.V.M.L. BASKETBALL TEAM

The C.V.M.L. team will be organized again this year. The team has always been one of the fastest in the state, and it will be glad to meet all comers. There will be some new talent to select from, as all members of the league are eligible and the best will be chosen. There will be a special meeting Sunday afternoon in the gymnasium hall to talk things over and to make a schedule. Manager Joseph Fellows requests that the following players report at 2:30 Sunday: P. Flynn, P. McLaughlin, P. McTiwan, C. Lockwood, J. Randall, J. Martin and J. Foley.

WHITE TO MEET LEONARD

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Charley White announced today that he had been matched for a 12-round boxing match at Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 10, with Benny Leonard, lightweight champion. Leonard knocked out White in the ninth round at Denton Harbor, Mich., July 5.

Kicking the score would have been much larger.

Red Williams played classy polo in the first period. After that, however, Harford and Doherty had him baffled.

Fall River gave New Bedford a beating last night for which all other teams are duly thankful.

Hardy made three fouls last night, but Lowell did not lose a point, because two of the fouls came during the regular playing time and the third was called in overtime. Fouls called in the regular game do not figure in the overtime.

BOXING NOTES

Eddie Mead of New York, manager of Andy Chaney, Joe Lynch and several other high class boxers, who was here the other night, declares that Chaney has the next featherweight champion. He declared that Chaney really defeated Kilbane twice, but did not get the awards. Now they are fought again and Mead feels confident it is the bout goes on Chaney will be crowned king of the feathers.

Joe Lynch is considered one of the greatest boxers in the country. He appeared in three fights in the Madison Square Garden and the total receipts for the three engagements were $100,000. Lynch and Jack Sharkey played to a gate of $33,000 in their first engagement. Then Lynch mingled with Jack White at the Temple of Elysium. Thirty-nine thousand dollars worth of fans passed through the turnstiles on that occasion. The Lynch-Goldstein match, which was substituted for the return bout between Joe and Sharkey, was witnessed by fans who paid $29,000 for the privilege. Had Sharkey gone through with the match it is certain the receipts would have gone over $60,000.

Bandsman Rice of England and Bob Martin, A.E.F. heavyweight, will meet in Boston on Tuesday night.

George Brooks (Young George Gardner) who has been setting a fine record for himself in and around Boston, is training hard in preparation for future bouts.

Plans are underway to bring Young Montreal, conqueror of Frankie Mason here in the near future. He appeared in Lowell a short time ago and his work made a hit here. He is now regarded as one of the best men of his weight in this section and against a worthy opponent ought to pack 'em in.

CADETS VS. MEN-OF-WAR

Tomorrow afternoon or the North common the fur will fly when the Men-of-War, a team comprised of former high school players and others will line up against the undefeated Cadets. The latter have been moving down their opponents in a consistent manner.

In five games this year the Cadet team has won a total of 113 points, while their opponents had to be satisfied with an even dozen.

The Men-of-War are a recently organized outfit and their first start came through flying to the tune of 26 to 8. They are confident that they will break up the winning streak of the Cadets.

Dr. Matt Mahoney has been selected to referee the tilt, and John Neeson will perform in the role of umpire. The game will start at 1.15 sharp.

The Millstreams of Lowell will play the Mohawks of Manchester on the South common tomorrow afternoon.

ALLEN McQUHAE

Youthful Irish Tenor Will Sing in Lowell

Lowell music lovers will undoubtedly receive with pleasure the news that Allen McQuhae, the youthful Irish tenor whose reputation was established in this country almost overnight, is to appear at the Lowell Opera House Sunday evening, Nov. 23, under the management of the Music League of America. His appearance here will be under the direct auspices of Martin A. Hunt.

Allen McQuhae is one of the few singers who have been endowed with the power not only to master the technique of their art but to be so much a part of it that they move their listeners' hearts. Occasionally there emerges such a singer who is able to invest the tone with an indefinable quality that is more felt than heard.

Mr. McQuhae was born in Bray, County Wicklow, Ireland, and educated at the Jesuit college of Sonnyburel. Several years ago he came to this country and was making a highly successful tour of the middle west as soloist with the Cleveland symphony orchestra when the United States entered the war. Although not a citizen, he offered his services to the chairman of the Cleveland draft board providing he would be sent overseas at once. He was accepted and soon set sail with the first hundred thousand to leave this country. On the other side he received two citations for gallantry and was commissioned a lieutenant at Bolson. He first served with the 27th division. He was later transferred to the 78th Y.D. Division. He has just finished a tour with the Minneapolis symphony orchestra and appeared for the first time in Boston at the Wilbur theatre Nov. 7 and easily won his audience by his splendid rendition of Irish melodies. The next day many of his critics hailed him as another McCormack. Mr. McQuhae will be heard more extensively during the present season than in any previous year and Lowell is fortunate indeed to have him appear here so early in his concert tour. His is a rare type of voice, the true Irish tenor, yet with a dramatic tendency; a warm voice, with the ringing Irish timbre which snags so easily to the top notes; a smooth voice which is no less effective in mezzo-di-voice than in ringing climaxes. He has the feeling for phrase also and splendid action. In a word, a real artist.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Lombardi Ltd." Attraction at the Opera House Next Week—Wonderful Wardrobe and Stage Settings

With a wardrobe estimated at $20,000, and stage settings in keeping with the artistic and costly habits of the members of the cast, particularly the models, Owner J. W. Schank of the Opera House promises the patrons of the city and suburbs one of the most finished and extensive stock attractions that this city has ever seen in the presentation of Fredrick and Fanny Hatton's famous fun and fashion success "Lombardi Ltd." The entire strength of the Lowell players will be augmented by the services of extras, as well as artists and designers, draped in the art of decorating and draping. Every indication points to the coming production as the biggest and best of its kind that local stock circles has ever offered to a Lowell public. Specially engaged men and women from J. L. Chaffoux & Co., and Rose Jordan Hartford will be employed and assist Director Jack Bennett in famous stage setting of the fashionable modiste's headquarters in Fifth avenue. The costly gowns, fur pieces and millinery to be used will be heavily insured during their use at the theatre, and a special watch placed over them night and day during the week. Mr. Schank and Associate Manager Cooke do not believe in doing things by halves, as may well be indicated from the manner in which they are producing this big stock success. Besides being a wonderfully good play "Lombardi Ltd." promises to be a real fashion show. The latter will appeal strongly to the women folk of the city and surrounding towns, while the show itself will positively appeal to all, more particularly the men folk. The reputation of "Lombardi Ltd." as only as a laughmaker, but also for its strong dramatic and happy and artistic dressing of the ladies has preceded it. In it the authors have brought to the stage an entirely new character—that of a fashionable dressmaker, a creator of big gowns and women's wear—Tito Lombardi, America's foremost creator of smart fashion. He is a genius in the matter of gorgeous gowns, but has absolutely no idea of business and never knows what of an amateur in the art of making love. He is entirely taken up with two subjects, clothes and a show girl. Slowly paying customers and an unfaithful sweetheart lead him to the very brink of financial disaster, from which he is saved only by the timely efforts of one of his dress models or consoling as they are called in the fashionable Fifth avenue shops.

The play no doubt will score one of the biggest hits of the season, and it's advisable to order your tickets well in advance. Miss Margaret Vidlar will appear as one of the models and the other women of the company will be seen in congenial roles. Milton Hyron, whose character work is one of his strongest assets, will play the interesting role of Tito Lombardi, and he should, certainly score heavily. Maxwell Driscoll will be seen as a well-dressed frequenter of the fashion shops.

It's a big play put on in a big way and should do big business.

BOSTON SYMPHONY

Irma Seydel to Play With Orchestra at Concert to be Given at the Strand Theatre, November 22.

Lowell will have a doubly interesting musical treat when, at the Boston Symphony concert to be given at the Strand theatre here November 22nd, at 7:30, the soloist of the evening will be Miss Irma Seydel, the young violinist of national repute, who will play the melodious and formidably difficult Concerto of Vieuxtemps with the orchestra. She has had original compositions played by the orchestras in Boston and St. Louis, has given recitals of her own in a number of cities, and has played with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Boston and elsewhere under four of its conductors, making her debut at the age of fifteen under Conductor Fiedler. Indeed, she has been called the "daughter of the Boston Symphony Orchestra" for her father has served honorably as double bass in its ranks for many years. Miss Seydel's teachers have been, first, her father, then Gustave Strube, once violinist in the orchestra, now conductor of the orchestra in Baltimore. Andre Magerite, once first flutist of the orchestra, and Charles Martin Loeffler, the famous American composer, who played at the first desk of violins in the earliest years of this historical organization. The enthusiasm aroused by Miss Seydel's recent appearances in Lowell is but a repetition of numberless concerts which have made her name one of the most highly regarded among the musicians in our eastern cities.

ENFORCING THE LIQUOR LAW

For some time past the evidence of non-enforcement of the liquor law has been creeping out, not only in police court but in many places throughout the city and on our public streets. In police court the number of persons arraigned for drunkenness offers incontestable proof that liquor is being sold in violation of law.

Judge Enright has repeatedly called attention to the present state of affairs, but without apparent effect.

The question now discussed throughout the city is, whether the officers are fooling the chief as to the actual conditions or whether they are carrying out instructions of their superiors in closing their eyes to the open and flagrant violations of the law.

As head of the police department, it is incumbent upon Mayor Thompson to see that the police officials shall enforce the prohibitory law without fear or favor and that the city shall be cleared of speakeasies and the dives in which stills are in operation in the manufacture of "moonshine," the sale of which is undoubtedly responsible for much of the drunkenness recently noticed on the streets of our city.

This is a serious state of affairs and one which reflects directly upon Mayor Thompson as head of the police department even though the blame may rest with some of his subordinates.

We would remind this honor that he may as well realize now as later that the responsibility in this matter is entirely his and that the public is not blind to the manner in which the law is being evaded with impunity throughout the city.

That the law is not being enforced as it should be is apparent to everybody, and to Mayor Thompson as commissioner of public safety and head of the police department, the citizens must look for the necessary improvement.

THE HOME RULE BILL

Despite all protests from liberal and labor sources the Lloyd George government has passed the home rule for Ireland bill and this time Sir Edward Carson is not likely to veto it as he did the bill passed in 1914.

It carries out his idea of minority rule in Ireland and as he is the parliamentary dictator, the British premier will try to justify it by ingenious camouflage.

It divides Ireland on sectional lines, the aim being to maintain perpetually a sort of British partition in Ulster that will resist the idea of a free Ireland. The British premier and other Tory officials such as Bonar Law depict the alleged difficulty of settling the Irish question while the Carsons hold out against the recognition of Ireland's rights and insist upon remaining in union with England. But the government is responsible for Carsonism as it is the outcome of the Tory policy to keep the people divided so that they cannot exert their entire strength as a national unit.

This attempt to partition Ireland will not settle the question, which will continue to trouble the British until Carsonism is dropped and Ireland justly treated as one united and undivided national entity.

The present bill is the merest makeshift in comparison to the act of 1914, which Ireland was glad to accept then but the betrayal of the people in refusing to put the law in operation changed the situation and caused all the trouble that has since occurred. It is all the result of the government's abject submission to Carsonism.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

The business situation is in rather a disturbed condition and it will be some weeks before any improvement comes.

The slump in the price of cotton has much to do with the disturbance in the textile industry and the refusal of the public to buy is another factor almost equally demoralizing. Most of the reductions announced in textile fabrics will not take effect till next summer, but the merchants are cutting prices and those who have carried a big stock will probably sell at a loss during this period of unsettled values.

This, however, can be relied upon that so long as prices are not reduced there will be no possibility of prices returning to the pre-war level. The refusal of the public to buy has closed the mills and if persisted in, it will also cut wages. It is bad policy. The textile merchants are now between the upper and the nether millstone, as it were, and many of them are likely to lose as much by falling prices as they gained during the war by rising prices.

TO SAVE THE CHILDREN

Herbert Hoover's appeal in behalf of the starving children of Europe is sinking deeply into the public mind in this country and is likely to bring good results. The Literary Digest has taken up the movement, and it is also favored by many of the leading papers of the country. The people of this country can have but slight conception of what the conditions are in Austria and some other countries of Europe in which it is difficult to obtain food at any price and in which the poor people are entirely dependent upon public charity. In Austria the farmers of corn are added to those of hunger as fuel is almost as scarce as food. The price of meat, it would seem, passed a sentence of death upon Austria in deciding that what remains of the empire should be deprived of the material resources necessary to the nation's existence. The Hoover appeal is one that should meet a generous response.

WALL STREET EXPLOSION

The New York World Herald has solved the mystery of the Wall street explosion in which 27 lives were lost.

CALL FOR CRACKSMEN

Bank officials calling for a convicted cracksmen to aid them in opening a vault was the occurrence reported from Ottawa, Ill., the other day when the officials found that the bank had been robbed and their "teller," as they thought, locked in the vault. As it happened, the penitentiary appealed to did not have an expert in that kind of work. Otherwise some noted robber might have had an opportunity to get a little more practice in his art and incidentally to lay plans for a successful job in the future. It turned out, however, that the teller himself was the robber—a young man who in a moment of weakness blasted his life and disgraced his family.

THE CANDIDATES

The list of candidates for commissioner at the coming primaries is larger than in some past years. The larger the better, provided the list shows men of the right stamp—men qualified to direct municipal affairs with honesty and sound business judgment. We are satisfied, however, that under the present charter, men of high standing in the business life of our city will not enter the contest. This is not the fault of the electorate, but of the system. Nothing can bring any material improvement except a new charter that will remedy the defects of the present commission charter.

A TRIPLE TRAGEDY

That was a lamentable occurrence in which three children lost their lives by fire on Brooks street, well left alone in the house. It is understood that their parents put them to bed before leaving the house, but that would not prevent them from playing with matches when left alone.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

A dainty pink envelope arrived in the mail the other day. It is such an envelope as arouses anticipations as to what its contents may be. It was of the size that stamped it as ultra-fashionable. The superlatives were in the obtrusive, chrome-plated, thin, more than ultra-fashionable. Within was a brief note. It asked: "Why don't you have a 'Woman About Town' column in The Sun? I think it would be just splendid. Women are voters and we should not longer be neglected." "Florence" was the signature beneath the respectful, if somewhat familiar, "Yours truly." To tell the truth, the suggestion of Florence is worth considering. It is going over to the boss, and I can say to Florence that it will receive careful and thoughtful consideration. The trouble with such a column—or one of them at least—would probably be that if it were to be bang-up in quality it would have to be conducted by a man. It is to be feared that a woman would confine her about-towning too much to the streets where the show windows are most attractive and that her studies would lack the human interest that comes from plowing into all sorts and conditions of places. Then, too, it is a fact that editors have found that when they wish to produce feminine news that is really goshed up and read with pleasure by women it is usually necessary to find a male to do the writing. Most of the best women's pages, and women's magazines are conducted by men. I know one expert who for years has written "Advice to the Lovelorn" that grips feminine hearts and keeps them constantly crying, like little Oliver, "there, who wears No. 10 shoes, a 17 collar, smoking big black Havana's, is bald-headed and a bachelor. It is all of the same piece with the fact that when Florence, and her sisters, don their most charming frocks, they are almost invariably the handiwork of men designers and dressmakers. The Sun has occasional pages devoted to the affairs of women and our "Lady Lookabout" is a real woman, who stands up for woman's rights and quite often presents some valuable pointers to the men.

The Lady Barber

A Tall-Order

The young man was giving a graphic account of a narrow escape he had had from an enraged bull.

"I seized him by the tail," he exclaimed, "and there I was! I was afraid to hold on, and I dare not let go!"

"Between the horns of a dilemma, as it were," ventured Miss Dubious.

"No," replied the young man, "I wasn't between the horns at all; and, besides, he wasn't a dilemma, he was a Jersey."

Love and Discretion

As the Londoner sat in the village inn, drinking a modest pint and chatting with the local residents, he got on the subject of married life. He advanced the opinion that true happiness was more often to be found in the peaceful country than amid the turmoil of a town.

"Well, I ain't so sure about that," said one old chap. "But I do know as I sat last night and held my old woman's hands for two hours by the clock."

"Love her?" gasped the old chap. "Why, if I'd let go she'd have scratched my bloomin' eyes out!"

Her Indian Summer

She is a little old grandmother—exactly 71 years old. And quite a busy little creature she is, keeping the stockings for this place, a scattering for that, and tending love for her new great-grandchild. Her daughter with whom she lives, the other day remonstrated with her for working so hard. "You don't have to work so hard now, mother," she said. "You've worked all through your summer of life and now, at autumn, you surely should have a rest." "I'm not having an actual autumn of frost and decay," the old woman indignantly protested. "My life is too beautiful and too fruitful to label it that way. It's an Indian summer. When I was young I used to watch old people having autumns when they fretted and worried and were miserable themselves. It worried me because I knew that some day I would be old and I didn't want to make any one, not even myself, miserable. And one autumn I enjoyed Indian summer so much that I decided to have an Indian summer in my life. And, half indulgently, I don't intend to have you or any other person throwing frost on it to ruin it, either!"

She Had Steady Pains Across Back

"About three years ago, while I was in a run-down condition, I caught a severe cold which left me with lumbago," says Mrs. Nellie Corey, of No. 117 Maverick street, East Boston, Mass.

"I had a dull, aching pain extending across my back and the muscles were so stiff and sore that I could not bend over. Finally I became so bad that I was down flat in bed for three weeks and could not move. I lost flesh so rapidly that I was reduced almost to a skeleton. I only weighed 97 pounds."

"A friend of mine had been restored to health by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I had only taken them three weeks before the pains across my back went away and I grew stronger. In a short time I regained my lost flesh. I weigh 150 pounds now. I seldom have an ache or a pain. My appetite is good and my work never tires me out. I am glad to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and whenever I need a tonic I shall use them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a direct action in lumbago and rheumatism because they enrich thin blood and tend to enable it to throw off the poisons of the disease. So long as the blood is kept rich and red there is not much danger of a return of the disease.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 50 cents per box, postpaid. Write today for a copy of the free booklet, "Building Up the Blood."—Adv.

Quarter Century Ago

The marriage of Mr. George J. Varnum and Miss Georgiana Thompson occurred November 13 at the home of the bride's mother, 183 Ludlow street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. J. Baker in the presence of a few friends. The bridesmaid was Miss Celia Felt. Little Vera Thompson, 2-year-old niece of the bride, was the maid of honor. Dr. Clement Hamblett was best man.

Varnum Superintendent of Buildings

At this time a quarter of a century ago, Charles F. Varnum was elected superintendent of buildings to succeed Richard Bray as a result of a hot political fight in which a noted "cuckoo" figured. That of course was under the old charter.

Went to Europe

Says the old Sun:

"The following named Lowell people are to leave Boston November 18 for the old country on the Cunard line steamer Cephalonia: Miss Maggie Ford, Sarah McBride, Minnie McLellan, Mrs. Jane Varley, Arthur Varley, James G. Varley, Patrick Byrnes and George H. Buchanan."

In those days there was no talk of passports and no high rates. A trip to Europe was an inexpensive vacation.

Florist McManmon

Says the old Sun:

"Our well known florist, James McManmon, has completed his new home and he is as happy as a bee in high bloom. James bought before the land boom was started in Braut and he has built a large greenhouse where he intends to raise his cut flowers and have also a large nursery for trees."

The McManmon nursery was burned down in 1914, causing a loss of $25,000. The chief item of loss was the destruction of a fine pumping plant. Mr. McManmon at the time thought he should have a help from Lowell, but none was given. He has now a steel and cement water reservoir that holds 50 tons. Just at present he is most interested in the work of his boys in football. James, member of the Princeton team and John of the local high school team. He has a daughter a teacher in the high school.

St. Joseph's Bazaar

Years of Stomach and Bowel Trouble

Had Three Operations and Was All Run Down—Newspaper Ad Guided Her Back to Health

"I suffered from stomach and bowel trouble in the worst form for a long time. I went through three serious operations and doctored all the time, but found nothing that would do me any good."

"After seeing Milk's Emulsion advertised in the daily papers I decided to try it. The first three doses relieved me, and I am now on the 4th bottle, and can say I have never taken any medicine that has done me so much good. I am feeling better than I ever did since my operations. I am gaining in health and flesh rapidly. I now weigh 115 lbs."—Mrs. Hattie Sharpe, 1019 Ridge St., Kokuk, Ia.

Thousands of sufferers from bowels of the stomach, indigestion and catarrh troubles, have found that Milk's Emulsion gives prompt relief and real lasting benefit.

Milk's Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and purgatives. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milk's Emulsion is strongly recommended to those who are weak and run down, and is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milk's Emulsion. Write for this booklet, "Take Milk's Emulsion with you," use it according to directions, and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 50c and $1.50 per bottle. THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

Mill Stories for Mill Workers

What represents about six million dollars runs alongside of and under the streets of Lowell every year. It isn't money, of course. It is potential cash, though. The stream does not have a golden appearance. Some of it dipped up in the hand turns out to be water. It is water power—white coal. If water can be compared to backbone, it is the backbone of Lowell. Take it away and the city would probably go on much the same, but if it hadn't been there in the beginning there would have been no city. When Nature set the jagged ledges up on end at Pawtucket falls she very likely had little thought that she was laying the foundation for a big town in which 115,000 people should live, move and have their being.

The Indians were the first ones to discover that the falls had particular uses. One of them was to afford an excellent place for fishing. Eels especially abounded in the days when the red man cast his codfish-spine hook into the waters.

Later lumbermen, cutting timber in the northern woods, found the falls a hindrance to their business. Therefore, in 1792, just after the United States had got started, housekeeping on its own hook, the oldest corporation in Lowell was formed. It was given the name of "The Proprietors of the Locks and Canals on the Merrimack River." What is now known as the Pawtucket canal was built. Its purpose was not to furnish water power, but to afford a way by which timber could be taken around the falls instead of being rent and smashed in going over them.

Merrimack Company Arrives

Then, in 1825, the Merrimack Manufacturing company came and started developing the water power along the lines that we know today.

Later the development work that had been done by the Merrimack company was taken over by the Canal company.

Thus from the beginning the Locks and Canals company has been interested in navigation and water power. It is classified for purposes of taxation, however, as an irrigation company. What it irrigates no one has ever been able to discover.

Statistics are sometimes interesting if there are not too many of them. Here are a few. The water wheels in the mills drawing power from the Merrimack have a capacity of 23,600 horsepower if they were all running at once. As a matter of fact, though, not more than 25,000 horsepower is used at any one time, and the average for the year is about 13,000 horse power. The steam power of the mills is 36,000 horse power. Thus the normal power of Lowell is about one-third steam and two-thirds water.

The estimated value of the water power in dollars and cents, given at the beginning of this article, is based on an average of 18,000 horsepower, for 24 hours six days in the week and 52 weeks in the year, with coal at $16 per ton.

There is a general belief that water power is much cheaper than steam power. It all depends. At the present time, with coal at a peak price, the white coal available in Lowell mills furnishes power at about one-half the cost of black diamonds. With coal at $5 per ton it is probable that the costs would be about equal.

Solid and Substantial

No one who is familiar with Lowell needs to be told that the Locks and Canals on the Merrimack river is one of the solid and substantial concerns of the city. Its dingy old building in Broadway has been a landmark for generations. It typifies the company's conservatism. If it is dingy without it is more dingy within. Its worn floors, its darkened walls, its antique furnishings all proclaim that "we are a part of the things that go on undisturbed in the midst of a world of change." From the big office in which Engineer Arthur T. Sanford directs the affairs of the corporation, to the rooms where draughtsmen bend over interminable maps, the apartment of the paymaster, with its safe big enough for a small family to set up housekeeping in, the whole place might have stepped out of the pages of Dickens describing a counting-house of old London.

Here a word about the man who bosses the job of keeping the water wheels supplied with potential power. Arthur T. Sanford is officially known as "engineer." Most of his predecessors on the job were called "agents."

The first agent was that genius—Kirk Boott—to whom, perhaps, more than any other one person Lowell owes her start in life. He served from 1822 to 1837. Then came Joseph Tilton, who was only in office for a single year, being followed by Joseph Boott in 1838. He held the place until 1845, when James B. Francis took the job to hold on to it until 1855.

Under Mr. Francis, George W. Whistler served for a time as assistant engineer and the event happened that led later to some dispute and misunderstanding. James McNeil Whistler, a son, who acquired fame as an artist and in other ways, was born in Lowell.

San Follows Father

When, ripe in years and rich in technical knowledge and honors, Mr. Francis retired, he was succeeded by his son, Col. James Francis. He held the place until 1908. Then came Hiram F. Mills, and for the first time the title "engineer" was used instead of "agent."

The present engineer, Mr. Sanford, joined the company's forces in 1891. Until 1917 he served as assistant engineer.

The company has a president in Boston, C. F. Baker. The treasurer is Fred A. Fawcett. The shares in the company are owned by the Lowell mills and the mill treasurers are the directors.

About fifty men are now carried on the corporation's payroll. Fifteen of these are engineers and the rest yard-men.

Such an ancient organization appropriately has some old employees. William B. Badger, in charge of land matters, has held his present job since 1882. Francis E. Appleton, purchasing agent, entered the company's employ the same year. Enoch Young, whom about five years ago, served the concern for over fifty years.

The Locks and Canals company furnishes water power and is classed as an irrigation company. It also has another job on its hands that is unique. It is said that no other concern in the country has similar work entrusted to its hands. It is charged with the duty of supplying water for the protection of the mills from fire.

This doesn't end the concern's outside jobs, though. It is charged by law with maintaining a dozen bridges. To build a canal, when it was built, crossed a highway; the corporation had to build a bridge and keep it there in condition for travel forever afterward. Four of the bridges have been rebuilt in the last three years, and two more are now undergoing construction.

Whatever the Locks and Canals company does, it builds to last. The substantial character of its construction is shown in the new U. I. Broadway bridge, connecting Thordike and Fletcher streets, and High bridge on Pawtucket street that is now being rebuilt.

TOMORROW RED CROSS SUNDAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The uncompleted work of the American Red Cross in Europe will be emphasized in sermons in churches throughout the country tomorrow, which has been designated as Red Cross Sunday. Dr. Livingston Farrand, chairman of the central committee of the Red Cross, said today. Thousands of ministers are expected to discuss the organization's relief work and to urge the public to contribute to support it.

SEEKING INFORMATION

If there are any relatives in Lowell or surrounding towns of George W. Raynes, a musician who recently died in Eau Claire, Wis., they are asked to communicate at once with A. D. Carroll, secretary of the Chippewa Valley Musicians' association, Local No. 315, of Eau Claire. Mr. Raynes arrived in Eau Claire from Milwaukee about a year ago, according to Mr. Carroll, and passed away Nov. 4. Not much was known of him there until he spoke of having relatives in the east. He belonged to the Musicians' union in the western city.

FOR THANKSGIVING DAY

Pres. Wilson Issues Proclamation—Says Nation Secure and Prosperous

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—President Wilson issued his Thanksgiving proclamation last night, saying that "in plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future," and setting aside Thursday, Nov. 25, for the usual observance. The text follows:

"The season approaches when it behooves us to turn from the distractions and preoccupations of our daily life, that we may contemplate the mercies which have been vouchsafed to us and render heartfelt and unfeigned thanks unto God for his manifold goodness."

"This is an old observance of the American people deeply imbedded in our thought and habit. The burdens and the stresses of life have their own insatiable."

"We have abundant cause for thanksgiving. The lessons of the war are rapidly healing. The great army of free men which America sent to the defense of liberty, returning to the grateful embrace of the nation, has resumed the useful pursuits of life as simply and as promptly as it rushed to arms in obedience to the country's call. The equal justice of our laws has received steady vindication in the support of a law-abiding people against various and sinister attacks, which have reflected only the baser agitations of our own unhappy passing."

"In plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future, its duties and its opportunities. May we have vision to discern our duties; the strength, both of hand and resolve, to discharge them; and the soundness of heart to realize that the truest opportunities are those of service."

"Wherefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the 25th day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and I call upon my countrymen to cease from their ordinary tasks and avocations upon that day, giving it up to the remembrance of God and his blessings and their dutiful and grateful acknowledgments."

MEN'S MEETING

The sedate big men's meeting of the series being conducted by the Y.M.C.A. will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium. Dr. William A. Bartlett of Boston, and Chicago will be the speaker and will show over a hundred beautifully colored slides depicting conditions in devastated Europe. Dr. Bartlett is widely known throughout the east and has an enviable reputation as a public speaker. During the past two months he has told the story in nearly every large city in the east and the men of Lowell will have a rare opportunity Sunday to hear this vigorous speaker. The meeting will be for men only.

BAKER'S REMNANTS
Eight years ago, in a room one fifth as large as the store they now occupy, Baker & Company had remnants only. But a rush of thrifty buyers made it necessary to add regular goods. They began to buy full rolls from the mills for spot cash, and sell at a very small profit, to satisfy the demand for good bargains which the remnants created. Their customers tell them now that they have the largest and best stock of woollens in the city. Their new location is at 641 Merrimack street.

THE LOWELL MONUMENT CO.
The Lowell Monument company is not the oldest concern of its kind in the city, but it certainly ranks among those doing the biggest business. This firm, which employs only expert stone cutters and sculptors, is known throughout New England for its artistic monuments and only recently it installed a fine piece of granite in a cemetery in a little shop with the big trade. This shop deals in motorcycles, bicycles, incandescent gas lamps, and also does a great business in re-tiring carriage wheels. Its telephone number is 1755.

50,000 Shivering Spectators See Tigers Trim Bulldogs in Annual Gridiron Battle

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 13.—Ideal football weather was in prospect today for the annual gridiron battle of Yale and Princeton as the day broke clear and cold. The Yale squad arrived early in the day and was sent through a brief signal drill in the stadium. Princeton had its last workout yesterday. Coaches of both teams said their men were in excellent condition. The enthusiasm which grows out of long-standing traditions of college rivalry apparently was greater here today than ever before. The streets of the little college town were crowded with knickerbockered upper classmen and black capped freshmen wearing large orange and black badges bearing the rummy and large black letters "Best Yale."

At 1:45 p. m. the Yale squad came on the field and began the customary drill of putting, drop-kicking and forward passing. A few minutes later the Princeton squad followed and the assembling spectators were offered a spectacle of the rival eleven running through signal drills on the same gridiron. Weather conditions were far more ideal for the players than for the spectators. Although the sun shone from an almost cloudless sky the temperature was below the freezing point and a strong wind blew in through the open end of the stadium interfering with the precision of kicks and making overcasts, steamer rugs and beanbag suits an absolute necessity for the fifty thousand spectators. The field of play was hard, dry and fast.

Princeton Wins Toss
Shortly after 2 o'clock the Callahan brothers, Captain Tim of Yale and Captain Mike of Princeton, met in the center of the gridiron with the officials of the game and after a short conference tossed a coin for the privilege of opening the play. The Princeton leader correctly called the turn on the coin and elected to kick off.

The Princeton kickoff with the wind at its back crossed the Yale goal line and was run back 12 yards.

On the first lineup Murphy punted to midfield where Lurie fumbled the ball, recovered it, but was thrown out of bounds on Princeton's 38 yard line.

Murray Makes Long Run
The first lineup by Princeton was followed by a sweeping end run around Dilworth, Murray carrying the ball and it appeared as though he would score a touchdown but he was thrown out of bounds on Yale's 23 yard line. A similar rush around end was good for five yards and Princeton was penalized five yards for offside play.

Lurie's forward pass was intercepted by Yale on his ten yard line and Murphy on the first scrimmage slipped outside of Keck for seven yards.

Yale punted on the second down, the ball being caught by Lurie in the middle and run back to Yale's 35 yard line before he was thrown.

Murray, aided by excellent interference, cut inside of Cutler for six yards.

A long forward pass by Lurie was grounded and the ball brought back. A short forward pass Murray to Garritty gave Princeton first down on Yale's 22 yard line. Murray swept around end for a gain of six yards but Yale was penalized fifteen yards for holding.

Gilroy's quick plunge in the center of the Yale line was stopped dead. A forward pass by Murray which over-shot the receiver, grounded.

Murray tried another forward pass the ball grounding close to Yale's goal line. He next attempted to punt but the ball was blocked and recovered by Gilroy without gain. It was the Tigers' ball for a first down at midfield. Murray gained three yards at left end of the Yale line, and then, in a sweeping run across the field, picked up four more on the right wing of the Yale line.

The Tigers next tried the center of the Blue scrimmagers but the Yale heavyweights repulsed and Murray's short punt went out of bound on Yale's 17 yard line.

Murphy punted on the first lineup and Murray signalled for a fair catch but fumbled and recovered on Yale's 17 yard line.

Davis Replaces Stinson
Garritty's charge into Yale's left wing did not advance the ball a foot, and time was called while Davis replaced Stinson at Princeton's right end.

Centre Gross also was injured and was withdrawn in favor of Galvin. From a forward pass formation Murray attempted a broken field run but was thrown by Cutler without gain.

Lurie made four yards at the Yale center and then punted over the Yale goal line.

From his own 20 yard line Murphy punted for Yale on the first lineup, Murray making the catch and being thrown on Princeton's 44 yard line. A forward pass Murray to Garritty followed by a brilliant run, gave Princeton the ball on Yale's 30 yard line.

Murray tried another to Davis but Jordan knocked the ball down for an incomplete pass.

Murray next fumbled Captain Callahan's pass which was low and was thrown for a loss of ten yards.

Lurie picked up a scant yard at the center of the Yale line, and Murray punted the ball rolling out of bounds, on reaching the Yale goal line.

Yale players permitted the ball to roll across the goal line and the break forced Murphy to punt five yards behind his own goal line.

His kick was high but did not carry far and Princeton resumed her attack on Yale's 33 yard line. Garritty made five yards through Acosta. Lurie lost three yards trying to circle Yale's left end. Lurie tossed a forward pass to Garritty for a six yard gain and the period ended before the teams could line up.

Score: Princeton 6, Yale 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Standing on Yale's 33 yard line Murray dropped a punt field goal for the first three points of the game.

The goal was made on the first lineup of the second period.

Murphy kicked off for Yale and Murray caught for Princeton running the ball back to the Tigers' 25 yard line before he was finally stopped. A forward pass, Murray to Gilroy, made it first down on Princeton's 35 yard line and a line plunge by Garritty added another five for the Tigers.

Lurie, from a forward pass formation, ran across the field and out of bounds for a gain of three yards.

Murray made it first down at the exact center of the field after a brilliant run which ended with a crashing tackle by Captain Tim Callahan for the Yale line.

Dilworth Thorpe had detected holding in the Princeton line, however, and the Tigers were penalized 15 yards and put the ball in play on their own 38 yard line again. Lurie immediately punted, the ball going out of bounds on Yale's 41 yard line.

Kelly in a line plunge picked up three yards at the right side of the Yale line.

Jordan could not gain a foot on the other side of the Princeton wing.

Murphy circled Lurie for three yards before running into the Princeton secondary defenses.

Murphy next punted out of bounds on Princeton's 16 yard line.

Garritty broke through the right side of the Yale line and ran to his 42 yard line before he was brought down by Kelly.

Murray's forward pass was grounded and he lost three yards trying to sprint around Cutler.

Players in Argument
Lurie got off a short punt which went out of bounds on Yale's 43 yard line and while most of the players were scrambling for the ball a lively argument broke out between several Yale and Princeton players which was squelched by the officials before half-clocks developed.

Kelly Makes Great Gain
Kelly broke clear through the Princeton forwards and made a first down on Princeton's 11 yard line before he was stopped by just to half of the Tiger team. Jordan then smashed his way through Dickinson for another two yards and then Kelly in his third line plunge made it first down on Princeton's 34 yard mark.

A forward pass developing from a run by Kelly, the ball going to Dilworth, gained five yards.

Campbell in a close formation line plunge made a yard and Kelly added two more. On the fourth down Murphy received the ball from a kick formation and sprinting along the edge of the field, made a first down for Yale on Princeton's 34 yard line.

Scheerer Replaces Murray
Before the teams could line up again Scheerer replaced Murray at fullback for Princeton.

Campbell made four yards over Captain Mike Callahan of Princeton. Murphy's forward pass grounded, the ball over-shooting the intended receiver.

Captain "Mike" Scores Touchdown
Lurie gained four yards on a delayed break through the left side of the Yale line and then Scheerer punted to Murphy on Yale's 15 yard line. The latter fumbled the ball and Captain Mike Callahan who had been racing down the field like a lightweight, picked the ball up and ran over for Princeton's second touchdown of the game.

Keck kicked an easy goal. Score: Princeton, 17, Yale, 0.

Murphy kicked off again for Yale, the ball being caught by Lurie on Princeton's 15 yard line and the quarterback swept up the field to Princeton's 25 yard mark before he was stopped. Garritty made four yards

Murphy on the next play attempted a field goal from Princeton's 33 yard mark, but the ball shot low and to the left of the goal.

Princeton put the ball in play on their own 20-yard line, Garritty gaining two feet at Capt. Tim Callahan's position. Scheerer next punted, the ball being caught by Murphy on Yale's 35-yard line where he was downed in his tracks by Davis.

Kelly dove through Keck for two yards, but Jordan's dive at the same position netted less than a yard.

Brilliant Sprint by Lurie
Murphy then punted to Lurie on Princeton's 30 yard line and the latter ran the ball back seven yards before he was spilled on the edge of the field. Lurie in a brilliant sprint across the field made a first down on Princeton's 19-yard mark before he was forced out of bounds. A forward pass intended for Davis was grounded.

There was a conference between the officials and it was finally decided that Lurie had been run out of bounds on Princeton's 45-yard line. A double pass with Scheerer cutting the ball into the line and a second forward pass by Garritty, gained five yards and Scheerer then punted, the ball rolling over the Yale goal line.

The blue-jerseyed team, on its first lineup from the 20 yard mark, called on Murphy for an end run but he was forced out of bounds for a loss of four yards. Davis and Hopper both being on the runner before he could get up dodging speed.

A second similar attempt was smothered by two-thirds of the Princeton line, the ball being downed on Yale's ten yard mark.

Murphy then punted from under his own goal bar to Lurie, who caught the ball and then was forced out of bounds on Yale's 42 yard line.

Lurie Scores After 51 Yard Run
There was a conference of the Princeton backs followed by a formation which indicated an attempted goal from placement. Instead, Lurie, who was kneeling to receive the ball, caught it and with a beautiful dodging run from the center of the field circled Yale's right end for a touchdown.

The run was a full fifty-one yards during which the Princeton quarters back slipped by at least four Yale men who were within tackling distance.

Keck easily killed the goal and with the play the first half ended.

THIRD PERIOD

When the teams took the field for the second half of the game Yale had the kickoff and after Murphy had built up a high tee, upon which he carefully placed the ball, the Yale quarterback booted to Lurie on Princeton's ten yard mark and the latter ran the ball back to the "Tigers' 20 yard line before he was checked.

Captain "Mike" Scores Touchdown
Lurie gained four yards on a delayed break through the left side of the Yale line and then Scheerer punted to Murphy on Yale's 15 yard line. The latter fumbled the ball and Captain Mike Callahan who had been racing down the field like a lightweight, picked the ball up and ran over for Princeton's second touchdown of the game.

Keck kicked an easy goal. Score: Princeton, 17, Yale, 0.

Murphy kicked off again for Yale, the ball being caught by Lurie on Princeton's 15 yard line and the quarterback swept up the field to Princeton's 25 yard mark before he was stopped. Garritty made four yards through Acosta but Scheerer failed in a similar charge.

Murphy Makes Good Gain
A long punt by Scheerer was caught by Murphy on Yale's 20 yard line and with a pretty dodging run to the center of the field he carried the ball to his own 44 yard line before the Princeton tacklers could pull him down. Murphy next made a short line plunge for a two yard gain but Kelly was thrown for the loss of a yard.

Dickinson broke through and tackled Campbell for no gain and Murphy punted out of bounds on Princeton's 23 yard mark.

Two line plunges failed to gain and Princeton punted to Murphy, who made a catch on Yale's 45 yard line.

Kempston Replaces Murphy
Here Murphy was replaced by Kempston at quarterback for Yale. Aldrich took Jordan's place at fullback.

Two line plunges by the new entrants into the game advanced the ball six yards for Yale and then Kempston tossed a forward pass to Kelly which was good for two more.

He attempted another but the receiver was blocked and he turned the play into a dodging run which gave Yale a first down on Princeton's 11 yard line. Kempston picked up two yards through the middle of the Princeton line but failed to gain or a repetition of the play.

Here Sturm replaced Campbell as halfback for Yale.

Aldrich attempted a forward pass which was intercepted by Gilroy and the latter was forced out of bounds on Princeton's 38 yard line.

Lurie Thrown For Loss
The Tigers lined up with a formation and Lurie attempted to circle Yale's left end but was thrown for a loss of a yard.

Garritty made three yards in a mass plunge at center and Princeton punted, the ball rolling to Yale's one yard line where it was declared dead when the players of both teams gathered around but refused to touch it.

Starting back of his own goal line Aldrich punted to Lurie who made a fair catch on Yale's 35-yard line.

Princeton elected to attempt a field goal from placement and with Lurie holding the ball on Yale's 35-yard mark, Keck kicked a neat goal.

Score: Princeton 20, Yale 0.

Quite replaced into at left tackle for Yale. Kelly kicked off for Yale to Lurie on Princeton's five yard line and the latter carried the ball forward to Princeton's 28 yard line before he was downed.

Keck, Princeton's left tackle and star goal kicker, badly injured his leg in an attempt to block a Yale runner in this play and Halsey replaced him.

A mass, rush on the Yale center failed to gain and Lurie's attempt to circle right end was good for less than a yard.

A punt followed which was caught by Kempston on Yale's 20 yard line and the latter ran the ball up the field to his own 33 yard mark before he was checked. Aldrich could not find a hole in the Princeton forwards and was swung back for a loss of two yards.

A forward pass made by Aldrich was knocked down by Garritty and then Aldrich punted out of bounds on Princeton's 35 yard line. Garritty battered his way through the Yale forwards for seven yards and here Eagan replaced Cutler at left end for Yale.

Lurie made a first down on Princeton's 47 yard line, circling Yale's right end and then Garritty repeated the play for a first down on Yale's 36 yard line, both runs being executed behind much interference while made a most important play for Yale, enabling the tackler to reach the flying Princeton ball carrier.

Score: Princeton 20, Yale 0.

FOURTH PERIOD

Aldrich pulled down Lurie when the latter attempted a sweeping cross run for a loss of 12 yards. The same two players figured in the next play, which was identical, Lurie being again on his head before he could get up to the line of scrimmage. Keck here replaced Halsey at left tackle for Princeton and attempted a placement kick from midfield. The ball struck the Yale crossbar and bounded back onto the field of play. Yale set the ball in motion from her 20-yard line and after one line plunge Aldrich punted to Princeton on the Tigers' 45-yard line.

Penalized for Violent Tackle
A forward pass was grounded and Garritty was hung back without gain in an attempted line plunge. Scheerer punted to Aldrich who made a fair catch on Yale's 23-yard line.

Aldrich made ten yards in a run around Princeton's left end and when he was tackled viciously out of bounds Princeton was penalized, the ball being put in play on Yale's 45-yard line.

Aldrich recovered a fumble in the back field after a loss of two yards. Aldrich plowed through for five yards and then punted to Princeton's 17 yard line. A Tiger line plunge and an end run which was spoiled by Eagan forced Scheerer to punt and Yale put the ball in play on Princeton's 35 yard mark. Wilmer here replaced Gilroy at right half for Princeton. Two line plunges, Kelly and Aldrich carrying the ball, picked up eight yards. Sturm gained a yard and on a repetition play, he first down for Yale on Princeton's 26 yard line.

Kelly was tackled without gain but Princeton was penalized five yards for offside play and the ball was on the Tigers' 21 yard line. Kelly was again thrown for a loss by Keck. A forward pass by Aldrich was grounded, and on what appeared to be a second attempt he was thrown. A third attempted forward pass directly over the center of Princeton's line was intercepted by Dickinson, who ran to Princeton's 17 yard line before he was thrown. Garritty could not advance through the right wing of Yale forwards and Sturm here replaced Scheerer in an attempted forward pass.

Scheerer then punted and it was Yale's ball on her own 20 yard line. Aldrich was tackled for the loss of a yard in a delayed line plunge and Kempston's quick forward pass went as uncompleted.

A second attempt was spoiled by the Princeton secondary defense. Kempston next punted to Lurie on Princeton's 23 yard line and the latter ran the ball back to midfield before he was thrown. On the first lineup a had pass resulted in a fumble in the Princeton backfield and Yale recovering put the ball in play on the Tiger's 43 yard line. A forward pass, Kempston to Sturm, picked up seven yards, and a line plunge by Aldrich made it first down on Princeton's 37 yard mark.

Aldrich next picked up five yards but lost two of the gain on a second attack at Princeton's right wing. The game ended with the next play, an attempted circling of Princeton's right end in which the runner was thrown for a three yard loss with the ball in Yale's possession on Princeton's 25 yard line.

Final score: Princeton 20, Yale 0.

DECREASE IN THE LOCAL DEATH RATE

There was a material decrease in the local death rate this week as compared with the two previous weeks. There was also a drop in the number of cases of measles reported, but there were more diphtheria cases than usual.

The mortality rate for the week was 11.99 in comparison with 15.68 and 12.53 in the preceding weeks. There were 28 deaths against 231 last week. There were ten deaths of children under five years and eight of these were less than a year old. Pneumonia caused two deaths.

Infectious diseases reported were the following: Diphtheria, 16; scarlet fever, 3; measles, 57; tuberculosis, 6. In the corresponding week of 1919 there were 39 deaths, 12 of them of children less than five and ten of children under one.

STREET LABORERS

Ability to Write Letters or Elementary Knowledge of Arithmetic Not Necessary—Experience Prime Requirement.

The ability to write a letter or an elementary knowledge of arithmetic are not essential qualifications for laborers or foremen of street, sewer and water departments. Men of 21 and over were 39 deaths, 12 of them of children less than five and ten of children under one.

The commissioner has received a letter from Joseph P. Riley, director of the examination bureau of the civil service commission, stating that examinations for foremen in these departments are to be held in December and he wishes to ascertain the commissioner's opinion of the advisability of including letter writing and elementary arithmetic as parts of the examinations or whether mere experience is sufficient qualification.

Mr. Murphy has replied that he believes experience is the prime requisite and that the other qualifications mentioned are not necessary. Some of the most valuable men of his department might lose their jobs, he says, if their worth was to be judged by their letter writing and arithmetical ability.

Germany Not to Ask Admission

GENEVA, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Germany will not make a formal application for admission to the League of Nations, but would not ignore an invitation to become a member, said Dr. Hermann Mueller, vice president of the foreign affairs committee of the German Reichstag, in a statement to the Journal de Geneve yesterday. "Germany will not ask the assembly to admit her to the league," he declared, "because such an application would give rise to a sharp discussion in the assembly, for it is known certain states have given indications they would oppose her immediate entry. I do not know whether they have sufficient support to insure the triumph of their viewpoint, but, however that may be, such a discussion would not be without danger to the league itself. Besides, the German government does not consider the league in its present form as perfect. How, indeed, could it be, since, to mention only two states, it includes neither Russia nor the United States, and universality is the fundamental condition of its existence? That, however, does not mean that Germany would maintain a reserved attitude in event of some delegation raising the question of her admission, and if the assembly should accept her, Germany would not decline an invitation resulting from such a decision."

Japan and U. S. Reach Agreement

TOKIO, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Newspapers of this city report the Japanese and American governments have reached an agreement in principle relative to the exclusion of Japanese laborers from the United States. It is asserted, however, that there is a disagreement regarding methods to be employed. America is understood to desire provisions for exclusion embodied in a treaty, but Japan, it is said, regards this procedure humiliating, and as forming a precedent she might be forced to follow in treaties negotiated in future. Japan is declared to consider that measures prohibiting her subjects from emigrating can be taken only on her own initiative. In other respects, the negotiations are progressing, it is reported, and, once this point has been settled, an agreement may be expected.

FRIENDS OF IRELAND AT FANEUIL HALL

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—At a meeting of the Friends of Irish Freedom at Faneuil hall last night, Joseph Smith criticized the Red Cross for not extending its work to Ireland to aid the victims of the Black and Tans. He read correspondence from the American Red Cross at Washington showing that all queries in the case were referred to the European associates and that no definite action could be given until the European authorities were heard from. Remarks were made to the effect that British influence would prevent the Red Cross from extending its work to Ireland.

Miss Ada K. Cannon of Iowa summarized some of the alleged outrages by British in Ireland during the last year, saying that 3000 persons have been arrested, 59 innocent civilians put to death, 17,000 raids made on private houses, 475 attacks on unarmed men, women and children and 97 towns "shot up," resulting in thousands of women and children taking to the fields and suffering from cold and exposure at night, from fear of their home communities being attacked.

When she finished, Miss Cannon aroused a great outburst of applause by dryly remarking: "Will someone please page the American Red Cross?" Miss Mary Culhane read impressively the Declarations of Independence of both the United States and of the Irish republic. Each of the speakers referred with gratification to the defeat of the League of Nations and credited the women largely with killing "a covenant designed to reduce the United States to a state of subjection to Great Britain comparable with Ireland's situation."

Miss Cannon asserted that Lloyd George's latest offer to Ireland, "to give her a partnership in the British Empire at the height of its greatness, England reserving to herself control of all Irish ports," means that England proposes to exclude American trade from Irish ports.

Mrs. Mary Mahoney, a Boston newspaperwoman, charged that a large sum of money, the source of which was doubtful, was recently spent locally in spreading propaganda in favor of the League of Nations. Mrs. Mahoney, who was in France not long ago, declared that the French people generally were anxious for the seizure of Harding because they are opposed to the League of Nations.

She said that the result of the election means "America for Americans, the Stars and Stripes and not an international flag, 'The Star Spangled Banner' and not 'God Save the King'." Miss Monica Foley, who was credited with having suggested the "thanksgiving" meetings, spoke briefly, and Cornelius J. Desmond recited a poem of his own on the death of Mayor MacSwiney.

WHIST AND DANCE

Members of the committee in charge of the apron table at the coming Catholic club bazaar held a whist and dance in 1005 E. Main street last evening. The early part of the evening was taken up with whist and at the close of the game, prizes were awarded to the winners. Later general dancing was started and continued till a seasonable hour. Those responsible for the success of the affair were: Mrs. Warren J. Knecht, general manager; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pratt; Mr. and Mrs. C. Hazeltine; Miss Mary Hill; Miss Gertrude Mullen and Arthur Pratt.

Most women neglect their health, and for this neglect they pay the penalty. Any woman who suffers thus will find that she loses flesh faster than Nature can put it on. She will find that neglect does not pay. A little more attention to health would brighten up her life and make her worries fewer. If she asks her neighbors she finds that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription benefits a woman's whole system. It not only acts upon the troubles and weaknesses peculiar to women, but is an all-around vegetable tonic that braces the entire body, relieving nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, dizziness and a run-down condition.

Dr. Pierce put his Favorite Prescription in the drug stores in 1870. For fifty years it has stood the test, and thousands upon thousands of women all over the United States can testify that this non-alcoholic tonic made them healthy and well. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. for trial package of Favorite Prescription tablets.

Magnates of Major Leagues

Meet in Joint Session and Bury the HatchetJudge Landis Elected Chairman at Salary of $42,500
—Remains on Bench

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Peace reigned in baseball today following agreement between the opposing factions to reorganize the game. Federal Judge Kenesaw M. Landis assumed the chairmanship of baseball and will act as a committee of one as a final court of appeal in all matters of dispute. His salary will be $42,500 annually with the understanding that he is to retain his place on the bench at $7,500 a year. The term, for which he is chosen is seven years.

Chicago will be headquarters for the baseball commission and offices will be opened immediately.

After receiving the offer from the magnates Judge Landis took Clark Griffith, a personal friend, over to a window.

"I'm going to tell you just why I took this job. See those kids down there on the street? See that airplane propeller on the wall? Well, that explains my acceptance. 'You see what propeller was on the plane in which my son, Major Reed Landis, flew while overseas. Reed and I went to one of the world's great games at Brooklyn. Outside the gate was a bunch of kids playing around. Reed turned to me and said: 'Dad, wouldn't it be a shame to have the game of these little kids broken up? Wouldn't it be awful to take baseball away from them? Well, while you gentlemen were talking to me I looked up at this propeller and I thought of Reed. Then I thought of his remark in Brooklyn. Well, we've got to keep baseball on a high standard for the sake of the youngsters—that's why I took the job, because I want to help.'"

OVERTIME GAME

Spotting Bridgeport four goals last night, Lowell struck a great rally and after knocking the count in the second period and again in the third, won out in overtime by the score of 7 to 6.

The game was one of the most exciting of the season, with much exciting play, and the fans on edge. Bridgeport got away to a fine start and things looked rather black for Lowell, but once the old combination got working, the fans were given plenty of opportunity to cheer and they certainly took advantage of it.

In the first session, getting four goals, three by Red Williams and one by Doc Harrold. Lowell tried hard to penetrate Pence's cage, but the former Lowell goalie was in rare form and prevented a tally.

In the second period just the reverse occurred with Lowell scoring in enough to tie the count. Harrold landed the first, Davies the second, then Hardy shot in a ballgame, and just before the period ended Davies kicked one, creating a tie.

With the opening of the third stanza, Davies put Lowell out in front of the game for the first time with a goal on a pass from Hardy. The score was again tied when Quigley hammered one through Black Pence into the net, but the advantage was nullified when Jim Cameron went up the floor and poked one in. A few minutes later the home crowd and the game went into overtime.

After a brief rest the players went at it again, and all hands cut loose and battled furiously. After more than five minutes of strenuous play, Harrold finally pulled the ball out of a scrimmage and sent it in for the winning goal. The score, lineup and summary:

POLO NOTES

"Twas a great finish.
Barney Doherty played a great game. He went down the floor a number of times and completely crossed up the opposition.

Hardy makes a big difference in the local team and after a few more games when combination work is perfected, much better results may be expected. Hardy is a strong blocker and also a good hitter.

Pence, formerly of Lowell and Salem, played a strong game at goal for the visitors. Only for his exceptional

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME
ON FAIR GROUNDS

Eddie Cawley, the former Colby star, who with his college was regarded one of the best in the game, will have charge of the Indian-Neposon-Wanderers game on the Fair grounds tomorrow. The contest will go a long way toward settling the New England independent football championship, a title now claimed by the Wanderers. Both teams will present their strongest lineups and a bitterly fought gridiron battle is in prospect.

In the visitors' lineup will appear many famous former college and high school stars. They have been playing together all season and among the teams humble were the Penn. Marquette council, K. of C. and the Steamrollers of Providence.

A record crowd is expected to turn out to see the game and the team managers hope that the fans will remain behind the lines. Crowding onto the field hampers play and delays the game and as the teams desire to run the game off as quickly as possible to prevent playing in the dark the cooperation of those on the sidelines is requested.

C.Y.M.L. BASKETBALL TEAM
The C.Y.M.L. team will be organized again this year. The team has always been one of the fastest in the state, and it will be glad to meet all comers. There will be some new talent to select from, as all members of the league are eligible and the best will be chosen. There will be a special meeting Sunday afternoon in the ice cream hall to talk things over and to make a schedule. Manager Joseph Fellows requests that the following players report at 2:30 Sunday: P. Flynn, P. McLaughlin, P. McGowan, C. Lockwood, J. Randall, J. Martin and J. Foley.

WHITE TO MEET LEONARD
CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Charles White announced today that he had been matched for a 12-round boxing match at Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 10, with Benny Leonard, lightweight champion. Leonard knocked out White in the ninth round at Benton Harbor, Mich., July 5.

Kicking the score would have been much larger.

Red Williams played classy polo in the first period. After that, however, Hardy and Doherty had him baffled.

Fall River gave New Bedford a beating last night for which all other teams are duly thankful.

Hardy made three fouls last night, but Lowell did not lose a point, because two of the fouls came during the regular playing time and the third was called in the overtime. Fouls called in the regular game do not figure in the overtime.

BOXING NOTES
Eddie Mead of New York, manager of Andy Chandler, Jess Lynch and several other high class boxers, who was here the other night, declares that in Chandler he has the next featherweight champion. He declared that Chandler really defeated Kilbane twice, but did not get the awards. Now they are matched again and Mead feels confident that his boy will go on. Chandler will be crowned king of the featherweights.

Joe Lynch is considered one of the greatest attractions in the country. He appeared in three fights in the Madison Square Garden and the total receipts for the three engagements were $100,000. Lynch and Jack Sharkey played a game of 10 rounds in their first engagement. Then Lynch mingled with Jabez White at the Temple of Pishana. Thirty-nine thousand dollars worth of fans passed through the turnstiles on that occasion. The Lynch-Goldstein match, which was substituted for the return bout between Joe and Sharkey, was witnessed by fans who paid $25,000 for the privilege. Had Sharkey gone through with the match it is certain the receipts would have gone over $50,000.

Bandman Rice of England and Bob Martin, A.E.F. heavyweight titleholder, will meet in Boston on Tuesday night.

George Brooks (Young George Gardner) who has been setting up a fine record for himself in and around Boston, is training hard in preparation for future bouts.

Plans are underway to bring Young Montreal, conqueror of Frankie Mason here this winter. He appeared in Lowell a short time ago and his work made a hit here. He is now regarded as one of the best men of his weight in this section and against a worthy opponent ought to pack 'em in.

CADETS VS. MEN-OF-WAR
Tomorrow afternoon on the North common the fur will fly when the Men-of-War team comprised of former high school players and others will line up against the undefeated cadet outfit that have been moving down their opponents in a consistent manner.

In five games this year the Cadet team has scored a total of 113 points, while their opponents had to be satisfied with an even dozen.

The Men-of-War are a recently organized outfit and in their first start came through flying to the tune of 20 to 6. They are confident that they will break up the winning streak of the Cadets.

Dr. Matt Mahoney has been selected to referee the tilt, and John Neeson will perform in the role of umpire. The game will start at 1:15 sharp.

The Millstreams of Lowell will play the Mohawks of Manchester on the South common tomorrow afternoon.

ALLEN McQUHAE

Youthful Irish Tenor Will Sing in Lowell

Lowell music lovers will undoubtedly receive with pleasure the news that Allen McQuhae, the youthful Irish tenor whose reputation was established in this country almost overnight, is to appear at the Lowell Opera House Sunday evening, Nov. 23, under the management of the Music League of America. His appearance here will be under the direct auspices of Martin A. Hunt.

Allen McQuhae is one of the few singers who have been mastered with the power not only to master the technique of their art but to be so much a part of it that they move their listeners' hearts. Occasionally there emerges such a singer who is able to invest the tone with an indefinable quality that is more felt than heard.

Mr. McQuhae was born in Bray, County Wicklow, Ireland, and educated at the Jesuit college of Stonyhurst. Several years ago he came to this country and was making a highly successful tour of the middle west as soloist with the Cleveland symphony orchestra when the United States entered the war. Although not a citizen, he offered his services to the chairman of the Cleveland draft board providing he would be sent overseas at once. He was accepted and soon set sail with the first hundred thousand to leave this country. On the other side he received two citations for gallantry and was commissioned a lieutenant at Solosassa. He first served with the 27th division, but was later transferred to the 24th Y.D. Division. He has just finished a tour with the Minneapolis symphony orchestra and appeared for the first time in Boston at the Wilbur theatre Nov. 7 and easily won his audience by his splendid rendition of Irish melodies. The next day many of his critics hailed him as another McCormack. Mr. McQuhae will be heard more extensively during the present season than in any previous year and Lowell is fortunate indeed to have him appear here so early in his career. It is a rare type of voice, the true lyric tenor, yet with a dramatic tendency; a warm voice, with the melting Irish timbre which soars so easily to the top notes; a smooth voice which is no less effective in mesadivocals than in ringing climaxes. He has the feeling for phrase and splendid action. In a word, a real artist.

"Lombardi Ltd." Attraction at the Opera House Next Week—Wonderful Wardrobe and Stage Settings.

With a wardrobe estimated at $20,000, and stage settings in keeping with the artistic and costly habiliments of the members of the cast, particularly the models, owner J. W. Schaeke of the opera house, promises the patrons of the city and suburbs one of the most finished and extensive stock attractions that this city has ever seen in the presentation of French and French Italian's famous new and fashion success, "Lombardi Ltd." the coming week. The entire strength of the Lowell players will be augmented by the services of extras, as well as artists and designers, trained in the art of decorating and drapery. Every indication points to the coming production as the biggest and best of the season. The local stock circles has ever offered to a Lowell public. Specially engaged men and women from J. L. Chalfoux & Co., and Rose Jordan Hartford will be employed and assist director Jack Bennett in famous stage settings of the fashionable modiste's headquarters in Fifth Avenue. The costly gowns, fur pieces and millinery to be used will be heavily featured during the use of the theatre, and a special watch placed over them night and day during that week. Mr. Schaeke and Associate Manager Cooke do not believe in doing things by halves, as may be indicated from the manner in which they are producing this big stage success. Besides being a wonderfully good play "Lombardi Ltd." promises to be a real fashion show. The latter will appeal strongly to the women folk of the city and surrounding towns, while the show itself will positively appeal to the men particularly the menfolk.

The reputation of "Lombardi Ltd." not only as a laughmaker, but also for its strong dramatic appeal, and beautiful dressing of the ladies, has preceded it. The authors have brought to the stage a character—that of a fashionable dressmaker, a creator of new designs in women's wear—Tito Lombardi, America's foremost creator of smart fashion. He is a genius in the matter of gorgeous gowns, but has absolutely no idea of business and proves somewhat of an amateur in the art of making love. He is entirely taken up with two subjects, clothes and a show girl. Stow paying customers and an unfaithful sweetheart lead him to the very brink of financial disaster, from which he is saved only by the timely efforts of one of his dress models or mannequins, as they are called in the fashionable Fifth Avenue shops.

The play no doubt will score one of the biggest hits of the season, and it is advisable to order your tickets well in advance. Miss Marguerite Fields will appear as one of the models and the other women of the company will be seen in costume roles. Miss Fields, whose character work is one of her strongest assets, will be seen in the interesting role of Tito Lombardi, and she should, certainly score heavily. Maxwell Driscoll will be seen as a well-dressed frequenter of the fashion shops.

It's a big play put on in a big way and should do big business.

BOSTON SYMPHONY

Irma Seydel to Play With Orchestra at Concert to be Given at the Strand Theatre, November 22.

Lowell will have a doubly interesting musical treat when, at the Boston Symphony concert to be given at the Strand theatre here November 22nd, at 7.15, the soloist of the evening will be Miss Irma Seydel, the young violinist of national repute, who will play the melodious and remarkably difficult Concerto of Vieuxtemps with the orchestra. Scarcely a musician of her years and sex has so distinguished a career to her credit as Miss Seydel. She has had original compositions played by the orchestras in Boston and St. Louis, has given recitals of her

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

Mill Stories for Mill Workers

What represents about six million dollars runs alongside of and under the streets of Lowell every year. It isn't money, of course. It is potential cash, though. The stream does not have a golden appearance. Some of it dipped up in the hand turns out to be water. It is water power—white coal. If water can be compared to backbone, it is the backbone of Lowell. Take it away and the city would probably go on much the same, but it hadn't been there in the beginning there would have been no city.

When Nature set the jagged ledges up on end at Pawtucket falls, she very likely had little thought that she was laying the foundation for a big town in which 115,000 people should live, move and have their being.

The Indians were the first ones to discover that the falls had particular uses. One of them was to afford an excellent place for fishing. Pels es-pecially abounded in the days when the red man cast his codfish-spine hook into the water.

Later lumbermen, cutting timber in the northern woods, found the falls a hindrance to their business. There-fore, in 1792, just after the United States had got started housekeeping on its own hook, the oldest corpora-tion in Lowell was formed. It was given the name of "The Proprietors of the Locks and Canals on the Merri-mack River." What is now known as the Pawtucket canal was built. Its purpose was not to furnish water power, but to afford a way by which timber could be taken around the falls instead of being rent and smashed in going over them.

Merrimack Company Arrives

Then, in 1825, the Merrimack Manu-facturing company came and start-ed developing the water power along the lines that we know today.

Later the development work that had been done by the Merrimack was taken over by the Canal company.

Thus from the beginning the Locks and Canals company has been inter-ested in navigation and water power. It is classified for purposes of tax-ation, however, as an irrigation com-pany. What it irrigates no one has ever been able to discover.

Statistics are sometimes interest-ing if there are not too many of them. Here are a few. The water wheels in the mills drawing power from the Merrimack have a capacity of 22,000 horsepower if they were all running at once. As a matter of fact, though, not more than 25,000 horse-power is used at any one time, and the average for the year is about 15,000 horse power. The steam power of the mills is 36,000 horse power. Thus the normal power of Lowell is about one-third steam and two-thirds water.

The estimated value of the water power in dollars and cents, given at the beginning of this article, is based on an average of 13,000 horsepower, for 24 hours six days in the week and 52 weeks in the year, with coal at $15 per ton.

There is a general belief that water power is much cheaper than steam power. It all depends. At the present time, with coal at a peak price, the white coal available in Lowell mills furnishes power at about one-half the cost of black diamonds. With coal at $5 per ton it is probable that the costs would be about equal.

Solid and Substantial

No one who is familiar with Lowell needs to be told that the Locks and Canals on the Merrimack river is one of the solid and substantial concerns of the city. Its dingy old building in Broadway has been a landmark for generations. It typifies the company's conservatism. If it is dingy without it is more dingy within. Its well-worn floors, its darkened walls, its antique furnishings all proclaim that "we are a part of the things that go on undisturbed in the midst of a world of change." From the big of- fice in which Engineer Arthur T. Sar- ford directs the affairs of the cor- poration, to the rooms where draughtsmen bend over interminable maps, the apartment of the paymas- ter, with its safe big enough for the small family to set up housekeeping in, the whole place might have stepped out of the pages of Dickens describing a counting-house of old London.

Here a word about the man who bosses the job of keeping the water wheels supplied with potential power. Arthur T. Safford is officially known as "engineer." Most of his predecessors on the job were called "agents."

The first agent was that genius—Kirk Boott—to whom, perhaps, more than any other one person Lowell owes her start in life. He served from 1822 to 1837. Then came Joseph Tilton, who held the place until 1845, when James B. Francis took the job to hold on to it until 1885.

Under Mr. Francis, George W. Whis- tier served for a time as assistant en- gineer and the event happened that led later to some dispute. A misunder- standing, James McNeill Whistler, a son, who acquired fame as an artist and in other ways, was born in Lowell.

Son Follows Father

When, ripe in years and rich in tech- nical knowledge and experience, Mr. Francis retired, he was succeeded by his son, Col. James Francis. He held the place until 1898. Then came Hiram F. Mills, and for the first time the title "engineer" was used instead of "agent."

The present engineer, Mr. Safford, joined the company's forces in 1894. Until 1917 he served as assistant en- gineer.

The company has a president in Bos- ton, C. P. Baker. The treasurer is Fred A. Flather. The shares in the company are owned by the Lowell mills, and the mill treasurers are the directors.

About fifty men are now carried on the corporation's payroll. Fifteen of these are engineers and the rest yard-men.

Such an ancient organization appro- priately has some old employees. Wil- liam B. Baker, in charge of hand ma- nufacture, has held his present job since 1852. Francis E. Appleton, purchasing agent, entered the company's employ the same year. Enoch Young, whom almost everybody knew, and who died about five years ago, served the com- pany for over thirty years.

The Locks and Canals company fur- nishes water power and is classified as an irrigation company. It also has an- other job on its hands that is unique. It is said that no other concern in the country has similar work entrusted to it.

It is charged with the duty of supplying water for the protection of the mills from fire.

This doesn't end the concern's out- side jobs, though. It is charged by law with maintaining a dozen bridges. Wherever a canal, when it was built, crossed a highway, the corporation had to build a bridge and keep it there in condition for travel forever after.

Four of the bridges have been rebuilt in the last three years, and two more are now undergoing construction.

Whatever the Locks and Canals com- pany builds, it builds to last. This sub- stance of its construction is shown in the new Old Brewery bridge, connecting Thordike and Fletcher streets, and Fifth bridge on Pawtucket street that is now being rebuilt.

FOR THANKSGIVING DAY

Pres. Wilson Issues Proclamation—Says Nation Secure, and Prosperous

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—President Wilson issued his Thanksgiving procla- mation last night, saying that "in plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future," and setting aside Thursday, Nov. 25, for the usual observance. The text follows:

"The season approaches when it be- comes us to turn from the distractions and preoccupations of our daily life, that we may contemplate the mercies which have been vouchsafed to us and render heartfelt and unfeigned thanks unto God for his manifold goodness. "This is an old observance of the American people deeply imbedded in our thought and habit. The burdens and the stresses of life have their own insistence.

"We have abundant cause for thanksgiving. The lessons of the war are rapidly healing. The great army of free men which America sent to the defense of liberty, returning to the grateful embrace of the nation, has resumed the useful pursuits of peace as simply and as promptly as it rushed to arms in obedience to the country's call. The equal justice of our laws has received steady vindication in the support of a law-abiding people against various and sinister attacks, which have reflected only the baser agitations of war, now happily passing.

"In plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future. Its duties and its opportu- nities. May we have vision to discern our duties; the strength, both of hand and resolve, to discharge them; and the soundness of heart to realize that the truest opportunities are those of service.

"In a spirit, then, of devotion and stewardship, we should give thanks to our hearts and dedicate ourselves to the service of God's merciful and loving purposes to his children.

"Wherefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of Amer- ica, do hereby designate Thursday, the 25th day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and I call upon my countrymen to cease from their ordinary tasks and avocations up- on that day, giving it up to the remem- brance of God and his blessings and their dutiful and grateful acknowledg- ment."

BAKER'S REMNANTS
Eight years ago, in a room one fifth as large as the store they now occupy, Baker & Company had remnants only. But a rush of thrifty buyers made it necessary to add regular goods. They began to buy full rolls from the mills for spot cash, and sell at a very small profit, to satisfy the demand for good bargains which the remnants created. Their customers tell them now that they have the largest and best stock of woollens in the city. Their new location is at 641 Merrimack street.

THE LOWELL MONUMENT CO.
The Lowell Monument company is not the oldest concern of its kind in the city, but it certainly ranks among those doing the biggest business. This firm, which employs only expert stone cut- ters and sculptors, is known through- out New England for its artistic monu- ments and only recently it installed a fine piece of granite in a cemetery in a Maine city, after the designing and cut- ting of the shaft had been done in the Lowell shop, which is located at 1054-1062 Gorham street.

Finally Brought Relief

Dover, N. H.

"In 1906, I began to be troubled with Eczema. It started on my face and gradually spread. The second summer, I was so badly afflicted I had to lay off work. I would keep my hands tied up at night to prevent digging into my flesh while asleep. I spent hundreds of dollars in seeking relief. I would go for several months without trouble and then the Eczema would break out again and I would be in for a siege of suffering. My hands especially were the trouble.

It was about three months ago I chanced to read an ad. of 'Fruit-atives' about a person being cured of Weeping Eczema by using this remedy and 'Sootha Salva'. I bought both and in about a week, noticed an improvement. I have now used two boxes of 'Fruit-a-lives' and one of 'Sootha Salts' and am entirely free of Eczema. My flesh is clear and smooth and I am that gratified with the result that I cannot proclaim too loudly the merits of these remedies"

Malto Theatre Next Week

A beautiful photoplay, "Deliverance," introducing the "eighty-w der of the world." Helen Keller, who since childhood has been deaf, dumb and blind but who, through careful coaching, is now able to speak, will be one of two big attractions that will be seen at the Alhito theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week. Along with her other attractions will be Herbert Losworth, Anna Q. Nilsson in "The Brute Matter," a convincing and powerful screen drama, a Frank Mann comedy "Way Out West," the last episode of the thrilling serial "The Third Eye" and "Foot."

For the latter part of the week, the Alhito is securing Joseph Dowling in the "miracle man of the screen," depicting the old silent patriarch

of Miss Keller in "Delliverance," ful move for the three opening days of the week.

In the portrayal of the picture
"Delliverance," one will first see Keller as "Maggie," and then

The arrival of Anne Sullivan, who is from Boston to take charge of her at the age of seven years, is seen as well as the growth of the girl and Helen ever said, "This is a great story of a great and when one sees the picture will not wonder that Helen is named as the eighth wonder of the world." That was what she said, high esteem by Dr. Alex. (Hill), America's telephone man, and Mr. Brooks, Theodore Roosevelt Maurice Mamerlin, Thomas Edison and numerous others. The drama of human strength and courage, and justice is done by Herbert Bosworth and Miss son. THE HOUSING PROBLEM

Not Sufficient Building Here

During Summer to Relieve Situation

There was not sufficient building in Lowell during the past summer to bring any decided relief to the local housing situation, according to a letter which has been forwarded from the office of Mayor Perry D. Thompson to Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the special commission on the necessities of life, which is making a survey of the housing situation throughout the state.

Chairman Hultman recently asked the mayor for a survey of the local housing situation to be incorporated as part of his commission's report to the legislature at the coming session. The report which was forwarded to the state house today gives a general survey of local conditions with reference to housing, rents and population. In the main, it is as follows:

"In answer to your first question as to the general demand for additional houses or tenements there has seemed to be no appreciable let up in the number of house seekers for the past year or more.

"In answer to your second question as to an estimate of the shortage, this would be rather hard to give as every one seems to live somewhere but in many cases desire a change, either because of advanced rents or other causes.

"Your third question dealing with the estimated average increase in rents may be answered by saying that undoubtedly and in practically every case a landlord has raised all possible, at the same time keeping within the 25 per cent. law. There are exceptions to this rule, however. But in the tenement district, so-called it is safe to say that the maximum increase has prevailed rather than the minimum.

"There, of course, has been a large increase in the selling price of a real estate property. In the main these transfers have been for speculation and investment rather than for individual homes, although a number of persons have purchased for occupancy.

"The number of houses or tenements has not increased at the same rate as our population.

"In answer to your sixth question Lowell's industrial expansion during the past ten years has been considerable and reached its peak during war, though not only new industries sprang up but practically every business expanded to more than capacity. At that time one or two housing schemes seemed fair to develop but amounted to practically nothing.

"As you probably know a number of our larger corporations still maintain corporations for a limited number of their employees, but no instance has any corporation put into operation any comprehensive housing plan for the benefit of its help.

"The development of industries in 1915-1917-1918, now receded, of course, and at the present time is at a decidedly low ebb.

"Finally there has been nothing done in Lowell today to meet any housing shortage which exists. There has been some building this summer but not in a sufficient degree and undoubtedly it will be for some time until spring before any real benefit accrues.

"With the prevailing high prices of lumber, labor and of building materials there doesn't seem to be any great desire on the part of individuals to build and until these high prices come down more than a little the same condition, undoubtedly will prevail."

REAL ESTATE DEALERS

These 11 Elliott, real estate and insurance, offices 64 Central street, corner Prescott, reports the following sales negotiated during the past week:

On behalf of the Battles home, final papers have been passed in the transfer of residential parcel at 241 Broadway. The house is in cottage type with seven rooms. THE HOUSING PROBLEM

Not Sufficient Building Here

During Summer to Relieve Situation

There was not sufficient building in Lowell during the past summer to bring any decided relief to the local housing situation, according to a letter which has been forwarded from the office of Mayor Perry D. Thompson to Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the special commission on the necessities of life, which is making a survey of the housing situation throughout the state.

Chairman Hultman recently asked the mayor for a survey of the local housing situation to be incorporated as part of his commission's report to the legislature at the coming session. The report which was forwarded to the state house today gives a general survey of local conditions with reference to housing, rents and population. In the main, it is as follows:

"In answer to your first question as to the general demand for additional houses or tenements there has seemed to be no appreciable let up in the number of house seekers for the past year or more.

"Perhaps the demand for tenements exceeds the demand for houses.

"In answer to your second question as to an estimate of the shortage, this would be rather hard to give as every one seems to live somewhere but in many cases desire a change, either because of advanced rents or other causes.

"Your third question dealing with the estimated average increase in rents may be answered by saying that undoubtedly and in practically every case a landlord has raised all possible, at the same time keeping within the 25 per cent. law. There are exceptions to this rule, however. But in the tenement district, so-called it is safe to say that the maximum increase has prevailed rather than the minimum.

"There, of course, has been a large increase in the selling price of a real estate property. In the main these transfers have been for speculation and investment rather than for individual homes, although a number of persons have purchased for occupancy.

"The number of houses or tenements has not increased at the same rate as our population.

"In answer to your sixth question Lowell's industrial expansion during the past ten years has been considerable and reached its peak during war, though not only new industries sprang up but practically every business expanded to more than capacity. At that time one or two housing schemes seemed fair to develop but amounted to practically nothing.

"As you probably know a number of our larger corporations still maintain corporations for a limited number of their employees, but no instance has any corporation put into operation any comprehensive housing plan for the benefit of its help.

"The development of industries in 1915-1917-1918, now receded, of course, and at the present time is at a decidedly low ebb.

"Finally there has been nothing done in Lowell today to meet any housing shortage which exists. There has been some building this summer but not in a sufficient degree and undoubtedly it will be for some time until spring before any real benefit accrues.

"With the prevailing high prices of lumber, labor and of building materials there doesn't seem to be any great desire on the part of individuals to build and until these high prices come down more than a little the same condition, undoubtedly will prevail."

John J. McPadden

Announces His Candidacy

To the Citizens of Lowell:

Confident that you are not averse to the infusion of new blood into the conduct of your city affairs, and that you welcome any man's candidacy, be he young or old, should it offer a clean-cut and able administration of public office, I present my candidacy for the office of Alderman, based solely upon such an assurance to you.

I have an ambition to enter public life. The opportunities to seek elective office in this city are indeed limited. One must stand in as a candidate for alderman. There is no lower elective office to which one may aspire to win commendation in the public service. I have not been a perennial candidate nor may you judge my capacity and ability by any previous service in public office. This is perhaps a handicap to a certain extent. Yet, if my honorable ambition to enter public life is a guarantee of earnestness and sincerity of purpose in the discharge of public duty, may you not look with favor upon my candidacy?

The fact that I may not be well known in a public sense nor previously held office, is not an argument of weakness or incapacity to administer satisfactorily public affairs. It is true that the candidacy of the perennial candidate would enable you to judge quite accurately what you may expect should you favor their selection. Why not, however, take a chance with an "unknown quantity"? Surely the standard set by such well known candidates is not difficult to attain or surpass, and you might come nearer the goal of COMPETENT PUBLIC SERVICE.

I was born in Lowell twenty-eight years ago; a graduate of the High School, also graduate of Holy Cross College, 1915, and American City Bureau. For about two years I held a position as assistant superintendent John Hancock Insurance Company, and am now engaged in the Real Estate and Insurance business.

My candidacy does not offer a panacea for all public ills—that would be too much to expect. It does offer, however, a sincere and earnest endeavor of public office, and an earnest desire to win public approval by efficient public conduct. May I ask you to take a chance with me? I will not disappoint you.
